LET THE GOOD TIMES ROLL

"I wish that I had never left high school. It was one of the best times of my life."

— Unknown

Many times I have heard parents, grandparents and other adults longingly express this thought while reminiscing about the past, and I think there must be truth to it.

In high school, everyone glows with the vitality of youth and promise. Laughter fills the halls with whoops and howls, while in the background there is a steady buzz from groups of friends conversing.

Students are probably in the best physical condition of their lives. We are all too young to worry about the slow breakdown of our bodies that only comes with age. We are strong and able with seemingly boundless energy that always shows.

High school is a social haven. We have more friends now than we will ever have again. Romances and friendships hold strong now, but many will fade after we leave.

These are the good times. Cherish every one, and let them roll on for as long as you can.

Dan Packard
Yearbook Editor

The sweetest couple at East? Senior right tackle/full-time romantic Mike Ramsey and his girl friend, sophomore Kay Parks, shared many touching moments.

Run for your lives!!! The Steppers provided "good times" by putting on a somewhat unusual, but well done, novelty dance during the winter assembly. Standing are Tracey Hiatt, Amy Howe, Taylor

Jobs became important parts of many students' weekly schedules. Sophomore Frank Lopez and senior Christy Waldron demonstrate cashiering.

Senior Mickey Schminkey struts his talent at the bowling alley with a perfect release. Whether bowling, dating or partying, weekends were always well spent.

Somers and Cathy Troutman. Lying down are Megan Christenson, Jessica Hare, Kori Leo and Brandi Elder.

Dances were a definite "good time" for all who attended. For Josh Hanson and Barrett Rogness, juniors, and Paul Sams, senior, it was especially good. It was the 12-B Formal, and their girls treated.

TURN

After school hours and weekends are what everyone looks forward to. Movies, going to a friend's house, socializing or just supporting our Scarlets by attending meets and games are just few of the things that students enjoy doing.

Friends, fun, and freedom are part of the "other world" that starts after 3 p.m.

The fun started in September when students dressed in ridiculous Homecoming apparel. The most enjoyed by all was Farmer and Hippie Day. Powder Puff was another social activity that came up the excitement a little. The girls took the place of the guys by playing the sport of football.

In the winter there was another event that every junior or senior looks forward to. The Japes, known as J2-B, once again proved to be a "Winter Paradise" (The theme, about).

Pep "E" Club put on their annual Spinner Spin. The guys were treated by the girls to dinner and a fun night with someone special.

Many things happen during the year that bring out the fun and friendship in everything. Socializing and having fun are what keep the "Good Times Rolling".

As, David Nash, senior, Jeanne Page, junior, and Jay Fagan, senior, dance belong to the Beverly Hillsites don't they show them again.

Everyone cheer! The School spirit runs wild. That proves that we truly are Warriors. Homecoming Week was enjoyed by everyone.

STUDENT LIFE

Homecoming brings spirit

Spirit and fun. These two words describe perfectly Homecoming Week 1990. By dressing up for a different theme each day, the students were able to show their spirit and pride, along with having fun. Sports players, hippies, twins and farmers were a common sight among the students.

Monday, the students "sported" their favorite jerseys, T-shirts, hats and other clothing associated with sports or a sports theme.

Tuesday was a "blast from the past" as the students dressed up for Woodstock Day. Long hair, bell bottoms, butterfly collars and peace symbols were common among the students.

Wednesday was a day for "seeing double." The students dressed alike for Twin

Day. Of course, this caused much confusion and many hardships while friends had difficulties distinguishing who was who among the twins.

Denim overalls, straw hats and pigtails became the appropriate attire for Thursday. Many of the students dressed up for what Iowa is famous for, farmers. The students went all out for Farmers' Day.

Thursday, once again, was the Powder Puff game at the stadium, followed by the carnival and mixer. Once again, the senior-freshman team was victorious over the sophomore-junior team as the comical Powder Puff cheerleaders provided humor by giving the senior-freshman team the extra push they needed to win.

The carnival included a pie-throwing contest and a dunk tank. Afterward, the students danced the night away at a mixer sponsored by Student Government.

Friday was once again the ever-popular Spirit Day. The students, along with the faculty, showed off their East High Pride by dressing in red and black.

The Homecoming Assembly ended a week full of spirit and excitement with performances by the Cheerleaders, Color Guard and Steppers, and, most importantly, the crowning of the Homecoming Queen, Cathy Troutman.

All in all, the Homecoming Week festivities went off without a hitch and proved to be a great success. Many of the students and teachers alike participated, showing great enthusiasm and spirit.

Seniors Ryan Hatchitt, Mike Hopkins and Eric Strauss show off their "so-called" cheerleading ability. The Powder Puff Cheerleaders were a humorous and entertaining addition to the Powder Puff football game this year.

Powder Puff Cheerleaders Eric Strauss, senior, "struts his stuff" as he cheers on the crowd.

The senior Powder Puff players do their jumping jacks as they warm up for the game. The senior-freshman team went on to beat the junior-sophomore team.

As years pass, spirit goes on Spirit spirit, we got it, spirit, we got it. (EHS chant). Although it was a new year, the spirit of Homecoming was the peak, as it has always been, of school spirit. At the assembly, Friday, Sept. 21, the V-I-C-T-O-R-Y cheer led by the Cheerleaders shook the walls of East High's gym.

Not only did the Cheerleaders lead the school in chants, but they also performed a special cheer. They showed off eye-catching stunts and even back flips off a "Scarlet" drum. Ceremonies started with what may become a new tradition. As the strong beat of the fight song pounded in all, the football players, escorted by their mothers, walked to their reserved seats.

The change? While entering the gym, they were surrounded by an array of red and black worn by the Color Guard, the Steppers and the Cheerleaders.

Leaving the players an aisle to walk through, the spirited groups chanted the fight song and welcomed the EHS spirit in everyone. The assembly continued with a fun dance performed by the Steppers to the song, "Turtle Power." The Color Guard dazzled the audience by making the dark gymnasium glow with their light show. The drama students had spectators rolling with their always-entertaining skit. Through it all, the students showed great talent. "The Nerd," Chad Knoop, senior, made many bellies bounce with laughter. With the closing of the day, many looked forward to the fun night ahead: The Homecoming Dance.

The dance was held Sept. 22 with the theme, "Every Cloud Has a Silver Lining." Red, black and silver created a traditional Homecoming. Celebrations, Inc., provided a big video screen and the song, "More Than Words Can Say."

Cheerleaders, Steppers and Color Guard all practiced a new arrangement for the assembly. While the football players and moms entered the gym, they were surrounded by lots of pep!

For the best assembly entertainment, East's guy Cheerleaders, seniors Mike Hopkins, Ryan Hatchitt, Todd Ficek and Eric Strauss, led the crowd.

For some, going out to eat starts off the night of the Homecoming dance. Alumnus Brian Haas and senior Janelle Dupree must be eating out Italian.

Assembly spirit was wild, especially that of the seniors. As always, the seniors ruled the underclassmen in the V-I-C-T-O-R-Y cheer. Freshmen should make a new resolution to speak up when their turn comes!

As senior Cathy Troutman is presented as the 1990 Homecoming Queen, she pleasingly displays a bright smile and wipes away a tear of joy. She said it is a great memory she'll never forget.

attendants were escorted by the varsity football captains this year. Respectively, the escorts were seniors Colby Calhoun, Pat White, Shawn Anderson, Tom Shelton, Gerald James, Jack Bartram, Mike Ramsey, Chad Knight.

Seniors Janelle Dupree, Kori Leo, Jenny Goodrich and Amy Howe show that fun was had by all; all the hard work from the hostesses was appreciated.

Senior Peggy Quijano shows hard work and much dedication as she strikes a pose while decorating for 12-B.

Couples explore 'Winter Paradise'; 'Still Loving You' is theme song

"Still Loving You," performed by Scorpions, was the theme song for this year's annual 12-B Formal Winter Dance. The theme was "Winter Paradise"; all in all, it seemed to fit the mood.

The dance was held Saturday, Dec. 15, from 8 to 11 p.m. in the Cloud Room at the Des Moines International Airport. The music was provided by "Footloose." The colors were burgundy, teal and white.

Couples could watch the airplanes coming in and going out while taking a break from dancing and socializing.

The dance was sponsored by senior Christy Waldron's mother and 60 senior girls. Christy was the chairperson of the dance, senior Tracey Hiatt was in charge of the pictures and senior Jenny Baker was in charge of the wine goblets.

Each hostess received a wine goblet for the hard work and effort she put into the dance. The hostesses put in many long and tiresome hours toward making this dance a success.

After weeks of deciding, the hostesses finally decided on Grant and Jolesch for the pictures.

Seniors John Duden and Laurie Kokke share a moment in "paradise" as they dance the night away.

Music D.J. is a plus at Spree

“I do,” says junior Stacey Connors to her boyfriend, sophomore Steven Buse, as they close up their wedding vows at the Spinster Spree. They received little gold rings which provide cute memorabilia to save.

There was a change in music for the better. Changing from a band to a D.J. (Entertainment Services) provided more variety. Some couples might have found their dance partner being hauled off to jail in the hands of Mr. Ray Patrilla, the conniving “devil.” Mrs. Susan Stroope was his opposite. She was a “guardian angel” who told fortunes.

The theme, as well as the song, for the Spinster Spree was “Stairway to Heaven.” The dance was held Feb. 9 from 8 to 11 p.m. The colors were royal blue, pink, purple and iridescent.

The crowning of the King and Queen topped the evening off with an abundance of cheers and smiles, they were Colby Calhoun and Kori Leo. Other members of the attendants were juniors Cory Shelton and Megan Christenson, sophomores Joe Shelton and Ashley Calhoun, and freshmen Dustin Douglass and Jenny Harridge.

Seniors Tom Shelton and Chad Knight try out appropriate roles as a devil and an angel at Spree.

Sophomore T.J. Moberg seems to be having a good time after the dance with junior Missy Crouse.

SPREE COURT. ROW 1: Kori Leo, Dustin Douglass, Jennifer Harridge, Ryan Dixon, Traci Fisher. ROW 2: Jodi Graham, Ashley Calhoun, Joe Shelton, Rodney

Rasmussen. ROW 3: Megan Christenson, Cory Shelton, Jay Elliott, Colby Calhoun.

Seniors Colby Calhoun and Kori Leo were the 1991 Spree King and Queen. They were crowned to the song, "Stairway to Heaven," and danced among the "clouds" in the East High cafeteria.

Senior Pep "E" Club member Christy Waldron smiles as she paints a red heart on a banner to be hung in the cafeteria. Many Pep "E" Club members played important roles in preparing for Spinster Spree.

Juniors Bobby Anderson, Jay Elliott, sophomore T.J. Moberg and freshman Casey Johnson display their happiness at getting to have a fun evening free of charge.

Something to remember of the days gone by are just memories that make us laugh and cry.

Growing up together over the years and helping each other with our biggest fears.

We hold our futures in our hands; now we must meet the world's demands.

Traveling together to life's main street, we promise that in the future we will again meet.

As we go our separate ways, we will remember those yesterdays.

Sexy legs! The outrageous powder-puff cheerleaders express their Scarlet pride.

Dreams, surprises fill 1990

The year 1990 proved to be a year that will live in everyone's mind forever. It was filled with all the elements that make up people's daily lives. Hope, dreams and surprises made 1990 an unforgettable year.

Nolan Ryan became one of 10 major-league pitchers to accomplish an astounding feat. He was victorious on July 31, 1990, against the Milwaukee Brewers, giving him his 300th career victory. Ryan did so with the Texas Rangers, and previously threw his sixth career no-hitter earlier in the season.

The Middle East became a very familiar scene to American troops. As of mid-October, more than 200,000 U.S. soldiers had been deployed to Saudi Arabia in an effort to prevent a proposed attack by Iraq. The conflict started when Iraq used military force and annexed Kuwait.

The homeless continued to fill the streets of our cities and became a major problem in our country. The homeless, as of the latest count, numbered nearly three million people. However, critics feared an undercount would allow the government to make cuts in services.

Flag burning managed to survive under its right as freedom of speech after the Senate rejected a constitutional amendment against flag burning. The Senate voted 58-42 in favor, leaving it nine short of the two-thirds majority required to approve the amendment. President Bush approved the measure, but the House rejected it.

Mike Tyson, that apparently invincible heavyweight champion, lost his reign to James Buster Douglas in the tenth round of their title bout in February in Tokyo, Japan. Tyson responded to his defeat by saying, "Just call it a victory for the small man."

Other underdogs that accomplished the "impossible" were the Cincinnati Reds in baseball's World Series. The Reds completed a four-game sweep of the heavily favored Oakland Athletics despite losing two of their star players, Eric Davis and Billy Hatcher, because of injuries.

German reunification topped the height of the news in 1990. Germany was officially unified Oct. 3. However, there was major concern about the European balance of power. Chancellor Helmut Kohl commented, "In the future, only peace will emanate from German soil."

Romania experienced its first free elections in 53 years as Romanians chose Ion Iliescu as their president. Iliescu won in a landslide, but the two opposition candidates alleged numerous circumstances of election fraud. He was heavily favored to win the election.

Nelson Mandela, one of the most respected black leaders, began his world tour after being freed by the South African government. He had been in prison for 27 years.

Evident from his facial expression, Nolan Ryan shows great determination as he pitches the ball. The Texas Ranger became one of 20 major-league pitchers to win 300 games in their baseball careers.

United States troops depart from their plane in the desert of Saudi Arabia to add to the thousands of troops already stationed there. The mobilization was part of an effort to defend the desert from a possible attack from Iraq, which started the conflict with its annexation of Kuwait.

A homeless man is shown sitting on the streets of Washington, D.C. The homeless continued to be a major problem in the United States.

Flag burning is still considered a First Amendment right because Congress's attempt to ban flag-burning failed.

REVOLVING

There were many revolving doors going throughout the halls of Lane this year. The answering machines and only one question in each room, and that was, "Where do we stand?"

For many years now, the different grade levels have always had their own hangout spots. As a tradition, the seniors were to have the north side of the first floor. If you needed to find a senior before school, during lunch, between classes or sometimes even after school, that was where they could be found.

The juniors once again declared that the south side of the first floor was their spot.

Sophomores had to find a different place to hang out. Most sophomores would be found in the basement.

This left the freshmen with only one option. If you were needed before a freshmen, the second floor was a good place to look.

Senior Mike Kline and sophomore David Smith are talking about the seniors' place in the hall. The two girls back of senior Mike Lane and sophomore David Smith are also in the hall.

Juniors

Rolling along with the good times were the Junior Class officers: Kelli King, president, whose goal was to help the Junior Class in any way and to see all the students in the Class of 1992 graduate; Traci Fisher, vice-president, said that her goal was to make this year great! Megan Christenson, secretary, said her objective was to make this year memorable. Trina Perez, treasurer, commented that she wanted to make this year as fun as possible.

All four girls were involved in many extracurricular activities, such as Varsity Cheerleading, Steppers, Pep "E" Club, Student Government, Drama and Art Club.

Juniors sometimes joke around

Juniors Megan Christenson and Rebecca Pollard decided to make an improvement in themselves. They wanted to change their facial expressions, and wanted to have something different from everybody else. Instead of being sexy and good looking, they wanted to be cute and funny.

On to victory

The Varsity Cheerleaders showed great efforts while cheering on the football team.

Cory Shelton races on to go-cart victory as the flyin' tiger flies!

Ever since junior Cory Shelton was six years old, he has been racing go carts. For many years he has won awards in all areas in this sport.

The expense Cory has had to pay for this comes from his sponsors: West Iowa Tool, S and S Custom Engine and Margay Racing. Last year it cost his sponsors and his family $35,000 for the entire season. This included many kinds of expenses, ranging from hotels to gas to extra parts for his cart.

Cory has traveled all over the U.S. racing in different competitions. Starting with the opening of the season in the spring, until it was all over, Cory traveled and raced every weekend.

Cory's family got him interested in this sport. His entire family races, and he just wanted to, also. Cory was asked what he liked best about racing. He said, "The responsibility that comes with it!"

Cory stated his main goal: "I want to compete in the Indy 500!"

Perfecting one of her talents, Ginger Cowger follows along with her sheet music, playing her trumpet all the while. She plays for the East High Band.

Embarrassment fades with time

Jay Elliott should have listened to his mom about sitting on all fours. Instead, he ended up on the cafeteria floor, thinking his mom would never know.

By their third year juniors should be able to take on East without complications. There are a few minor things they should be experts at, but then again, do not overestimate them. Next year will be their last year to try to impress the underclassmen; therefore, knowing which way the senior bench is may help them more than walking up and down the halls over and over. Remember that no one wants to be mistaken for a freshman. Why is it when you show up late to class in the north wing you tell your teacher you went to the south wing by accident, yet you always remember where the parking lot is when it comes time to go home?

If all of you in the Class of 1992 have been walking around not all together, now is the time to wake up and learn some things you should have learned two years ago.

Sophomores

The Sophomore Class did an extraordinary job of choosing four outstanding girls to represent them: Nicole Wagner (president), Shannon Carlson (vice-president), Ashley Calhoun (secretary) and Katie Goodrich (treasurer).

All the girls were actively involved in Pep "E" Club and Student Government. Nicole, Ashley and Katie were on the Sophomore Cheerleading Squad, while Shannon was more athletically inclined. She was involved in basketball, softball, tennis and volleyball.

All girls agreed that it was "an honor" to be chosen as officers by their classmates.

Does this scene look familiar to anyone? Annika Stroope and Matt Oltman sit nervously on a couch. This can only mean one thing — first date!

Educated sophs give excellent dating advice

Many people experience their first date while attending high school. This is a very familiar scene for many sophomores. Their first dates ranged from movies to laser-light rock shows.

Most sophomores weren't nervous. "If you were nervous at first, do not worry, it'll work out," said Hollie Edsill.

These "experienced" sophs gave some advice. "Make sure you're with someone you are comfortable with," said Carla Berry. Tate Thomason generously offered: "If you haven't done it, don't worry; it will be fun!"

How could future sophomores worry after being given such wonderful advice?

Gary Giefer sees another weekend stuck at home for Donnie Keithline. It looks as if Donnie needs to take Driver Ed. over again, but this time stay awake!

Look out, world: Steering wheels gripped by sophs

Sophomores graduating from Driver Education marked the beginning of a scared society. Let's face it. Sophs don't know a thing about car control. "Hey, wait a minute," said a soph. She claimed sophs are better drivers than their elders because sophs have everything fresh in their mind from Driver Ed. All seniors replied, "Like what? The 82 curb checks you successfully completed daily; the 9½ injured cats, dogs or other living creatures crossing your path; the 8 reconstructed stop signs; the 16 red lights you ran, confused about which pedal to use; or the three lawsuits filed against you from the survivors in your Driver Ed. car for whiplash?"

Senior Monte Crawford seems to enjoy all of the extra attention and idolizing he is receiving from sophomores Lisa Bayte, Diana Reed, Kristen Leo, Carla Berry, Renee Gatrost and Jessica Stumpf.

Sophomore girls head-over-heels for heartthrobs

Do giggles, squeals and no-no note writing remind you of a tenth grade English class? Do these high-pitched whines and hushed secrets bring back memories of the last time you took that fateful journey down the back basement hallway known to all as "sophomore hall" and watched the clump of girls laughing in front of you?

These untimely fits of emotion could be caused by only one topic: BOYS! Two skills sophomore females try to perfect in their second year of high school are boy watching and boy catching.

"When I like a guy, all I do is tell my friends. They run to tell his friends, who in turn blab the news to him." That was Katie Goodrich's guy-grabbing tactic.

Ouch! These are the halls of east High School during passing time. Every hour theses hallways become crammed for five minutes. Here we see the basement hall stuffed with the bodies of high school students.

Clean lockers? Who needs 'em?

The typical locker at East High School was not quite as bad as this, but if you bothered to look down the hallways at other people's lockers, it was awfully close.

Messy lockers are a tradition at East High School. Everyone's locker is messy at one time or another. Some people have messy lockers once in a while, but for others, it can be all of the time. It doesn't matter if there is one person or if there are seven in the puny space, or if there are girls or guys occupying the locker.

Lockers are the resting place for 20 to 30 returned homework assignments that were never thrown away and the one to two books per class that each teacher gives you, not to mention the various folders and spiral notebooks for each class. Lockers are the haven for two-month-old bags of chips, empty cans of pop and Kwik Shop squeeze bottles waiting to be used the next day during lunch. Then, when the winter comes, the already crammed, undersized locker becomes filled even more with heavy winter coats, book bags, gloves and scarves.

Lockers also become victims of the remnants of gym class: the sweatshirts and shorts that were worn two weeks ago, along with the beat-up pair of tennis shoes for occasions when you wear dress shoes to school.

Lockers also have to submit to being decorated with different forms of artwork: pictures of friends and pictures of relatives usually dominate the scene. Occasionally a mirror is added to the disarray. Various red and black ribbons and other paraphernalia help to adorn the dull-brown metal walls.

We all have to suffer through unreadable numbers on combination locks and a drab brown to behold. So until it changes, let's deck the walls.

Freshmen

The Class of 1994 chose four bright young ladies to represent them.

Amy Knight, president, was involved in Student Government and Pep "E" Club board.

Deth Philavanh, vice-president, participated in Pep "E" Club and Student Government.

Jenni Harridge, secretary, took part in Pep "E" Club, Cheerleading and Student Government.

Tiffany Larsen, treasurer, took part in Pep "E" Club and Student Government.

Christina Ollie laughs at her own foolishness at getting her purse caught on the railing.

Laughing about it now, later with your best friend

Freshmen often experience embarrassing moments as they go through high school; they look back later and laugh. When such moments happen, a person may not appreciate the humor of the situation.

Some common moments of embarrassment include falling up and down, dropping books and papers, getting clothes and purses caught on railings, doors, lockers, etc., and getting to the place one was going. In later years perhaps we will look back and laugh at some of the things we did as freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors. It will be something to tell our children when they get embarrassed at school. During the year things have happened that we may want to forget, but never will.

Many freshman girls couldn't decide on the same hairspray, but the same hairstyle is very common.

Freshman girls extend hair to show off style

Decisions . . . decisions . . . What kind should I get? Which has the most hold?

Many freshman girls went through this predicament every day, waking up early in the morning just so their hair could air dry. After drying, it took about 25 minutes to finish their hair, curling it, spraying it, combing it out and then spraying it in the same position it had just been in.

Choosing a hairspray could be the toughest decision. Salon Selectives, Bold Hold and Vavoom were three of the selections available. Selecting a hairspray could depend on how the girl styled her hair. Many chose the skyscraper look with the hair very high off their heads.

Senior hall is danger for frosh.

Have you ever tried to get through the senior hall safely? It takes practically five minutes just to get to the other side. David Fisher, freshman, said, "You've got to be a real patient person to get where you want to go." Not only does a freshman have to be patient, but he has to be careful not to get run over by a senior.

This is the situation that a freshman faces everyday. As the freshman enters the senior hall, he is faced with 50 giant seniors. Before he begins his journey through the wilderness, he maps out his path. He starts his way through the forest by weaving in and out of the giants. When he reaches his destiny, he turns and says to himself, "I think I'll take the long way next time."

Freshmen pass time on phone

Melissa Harrison and Teryl Syferd get to talk to each other all day at school, yet they find more to talk about after school.

Talking on the telephone is a necessity for freshmen. As soon as they get home from school they're talking on the phone as if their lives depended upon it. What would a freshman do without the invention of Alexander Graham Bell? Freshman Marci Kauzlarich said, "If I didn't have a phone, I would probably end up doing my homework."

Senior Tiffany Syferd commented about her sister's constantly being on the phone!

"She's on the phone so much my parents and I answer the phone, 'Teryl's Telephone Service. How may I help you?' I'm really looking forward to college because when the phone rings I know it will either be for my roommate or me," Tiffany said.

One of the worst things about being a freshman is having to find a ride to school. LEFT: A clever Mark Juarez catches a ride on the back bumper of a car, RIGHT: Some students catch the MTA instead of the yellow bus, but Matt Rourke was a little late this morning and isn't quite making it.

Frosh tough out first year

Did you ever find yourself walking two-and-a-half blocks to the football games, not because you couldn't park any closer, but because that's where you told mom to let you out of her wagon? Were you ever standing in the lunch line and realized that you hadn't moved in over 15 minutes, not because it was the one day pizza wasn't served but because upperclassmen could never seem to find the end of the line? If you in 1990-1 answered "yes" to the above questions, you were undoubtedly a freshman.

The temptation of elevator passes and trying to find detours to avoid the senior bench all came with the territory. So most of these problems should disappear sometime during the 1991-2 school year.

Strong social, academic skills guide students

It was the third year at East for Principal Jerry Stilwell and two vice-principals, Mr. Gary Jotzke and Mr. Mike Zelenovich. There was also a new face this year, our new vice-principal, Mrs. Fae Ramsey. By working together, they led East through another terrific year.

Mr. Stilwell has spent over 28 years in education. He graduated from Valley High School in 1957 and went on to attend the Iowa State Teachers' College. He then participated in graduate work at Drake University. Mr. Stilwell became a principal for the first time in 1981, when he was made principal at McCombs Middle School. In 1984 he became the principal at Harding Middle School. Mr. Stilwell became East's principal in 1988.

In the three years Mr. Stilwell has been here, he has led East to higher academic achievements and increased participation in school activities, sports and organizations.

When Mr. Stilwell was asked what he thought students should get out of high school, he responded, "Students should get a combination of strong preparation for the future as well as developing social skills."

“Help. My locker is jammed.” Many students have always seemed to have locker trouble; consequently, we were very glad to have had such helpful custodians to be around for us. Mr. Bob Howe (building manager) said he has had pleasing comments about East’s cleanliness from others visiting East High.

East High School, home of the Mighty Scarlets, has been a place where the good times have been rolling for many generations and will be for many more generations yet to come. Built 79 years ago, East High has done more than its motto states, "For the service of humanity."

ROLLING

We kept the good times rolling with Academics. Some students felt that learning was boring; it was the same thing day after day.

For this reason, teachers were always trying to come up with new ways to teach, as well as having fun while doing so.

In the past, teachers tried group activities or even games like "Jeopardy."

This year Mr. Pat Puetz, Physics teacher, thought of something new. You may have walked by and seen his classes using white boards. This is how they worked: Mr. Puetz would give his students a question, and with their dry-erase markers, they would answer the question on the white boards. After they had the answers, they had to hold the boards up. This was not only fun for the class, but a learning experience as well.

Through the hard work of the students and teachers working together, the intelligence of our students continues to grow.

Senior Mike James demonstrates how the white board is used in his physics classes. A group of the physics students were used to learn.

Taking off with Letterwinners, Industrial Arts

"With the accelerated classes I took, it was difficult to keep my grade-point average up, but it was worth it."
— Jesse Helton, senior

"It was a great way to start off the year. It took a lot of hard work to earn good grades and it was an experience to remember." — Jody Bishop, sophomore

"It was really great, because some schools don't have such a program."
— Brandi Penn, junior

"Welding helped to prepare for many career opportunities." — Jason Hall

"Shop classes were easier than I thought, because I was the only girl in the class. I proved to everybody that I could work as well as all the guys and better." — Missy Simon

"The change in auto shop made it a more interesting and educational class to take." — Mike Ramsey, senior

"The Industrial Arts Department did an outstanding job of putting emphasis on learning to be productive with their time on tasks." — Mr. Ned Rasmussen, teacher

Junior Kelli King and freshman Heather Hayward try to teach each other the basics of Spanish. It appears that they are accomplishing it.

Freshman Heather Carnahan gets excited in French class after learning a hard word.

Senior Shane Hodges jots down his notes as he uses his East High Scarlet pen.

Junior Truman McCurn listens carefully while being addressed in foreign language.

In Spanish class, students work together on vocabulary.

Senior Jenni Baysinger types vigorously, determined not to make any mistakes.

Scarlets excel in foreign language, business

"I think that sales is one of the best classes to take. It's a good learning experience for when you join the work force. It gives you the opportunity to go out and meet business people to try and sell ads to them." — Nicole Updike, senior

"Spanish is hard at first, but it gets better as you go." — Scott Plym, freshman

"I feel that you should take an extra language, just in case you move next to a foreign country." — Jason McDowell, sophomore

"I was in Computer Applications and Office Procedures. I learned a great deal in these two classes. They both helped me to do reports for other classes." — Angie Stewart, senior

"I think that typing will be very useful in my future and I am glad I was able to learn it this year." — Bo Modlin, junior

"Accounting is a great class; besides being interesting, it will help a person keep track of expenses." — Kathy Irvin, senior

"I think that Spanish is a great class if you are planning to visit a Spanish country in the future. The only thing I did not like about it was the fact that there is too much to remember." — Bonnie Bever, junior.

"French broadened my horizons when it comes to other people and places." — Heather White, junior

"I think that taking a foreign language is a good experience, and more people should learn about a different culture so more people could go out and travel to many different countries." — Kristin Harrison, freshman

The new IBM computers proved to be a great help in the advanced mathematics classes. Matt Reeves, junior, concentrates intently on the keyboard while juniors Tera Caldwell and Shirley Palm and sophomore Max Garcia work diligently on their problems.

Mr. Jim Hickman smiles at a student in his Pre-Calculus class.

Adrienne Parker and LaTanya Ferrell, seniors, laugh as they try to dodge the messy chemical reaction occurring in front of them. This was one of the many experiments done by students in chemistry.

Sophomores Matthew McVicker, Jennifer Thurman, Jennifer Smedes and Tricia Nelson grin with pride after their cell molds were chosen the winners of the contest in biology.

Individuals help build up math, science courses

"The new computers really help us in Calculus, because the problems are all so confusing. The computers help us to graph them and understand what we've just accomplished." — Michelle Twiss, senior

"Mr. James Hickman is a knowledgeable teacher who likes to help his students." — Tom Shelton, senior

"The students use the graphs to compare their work, in Calculus, to the computer's graph." — Mr. Virgil Larsen, teacher

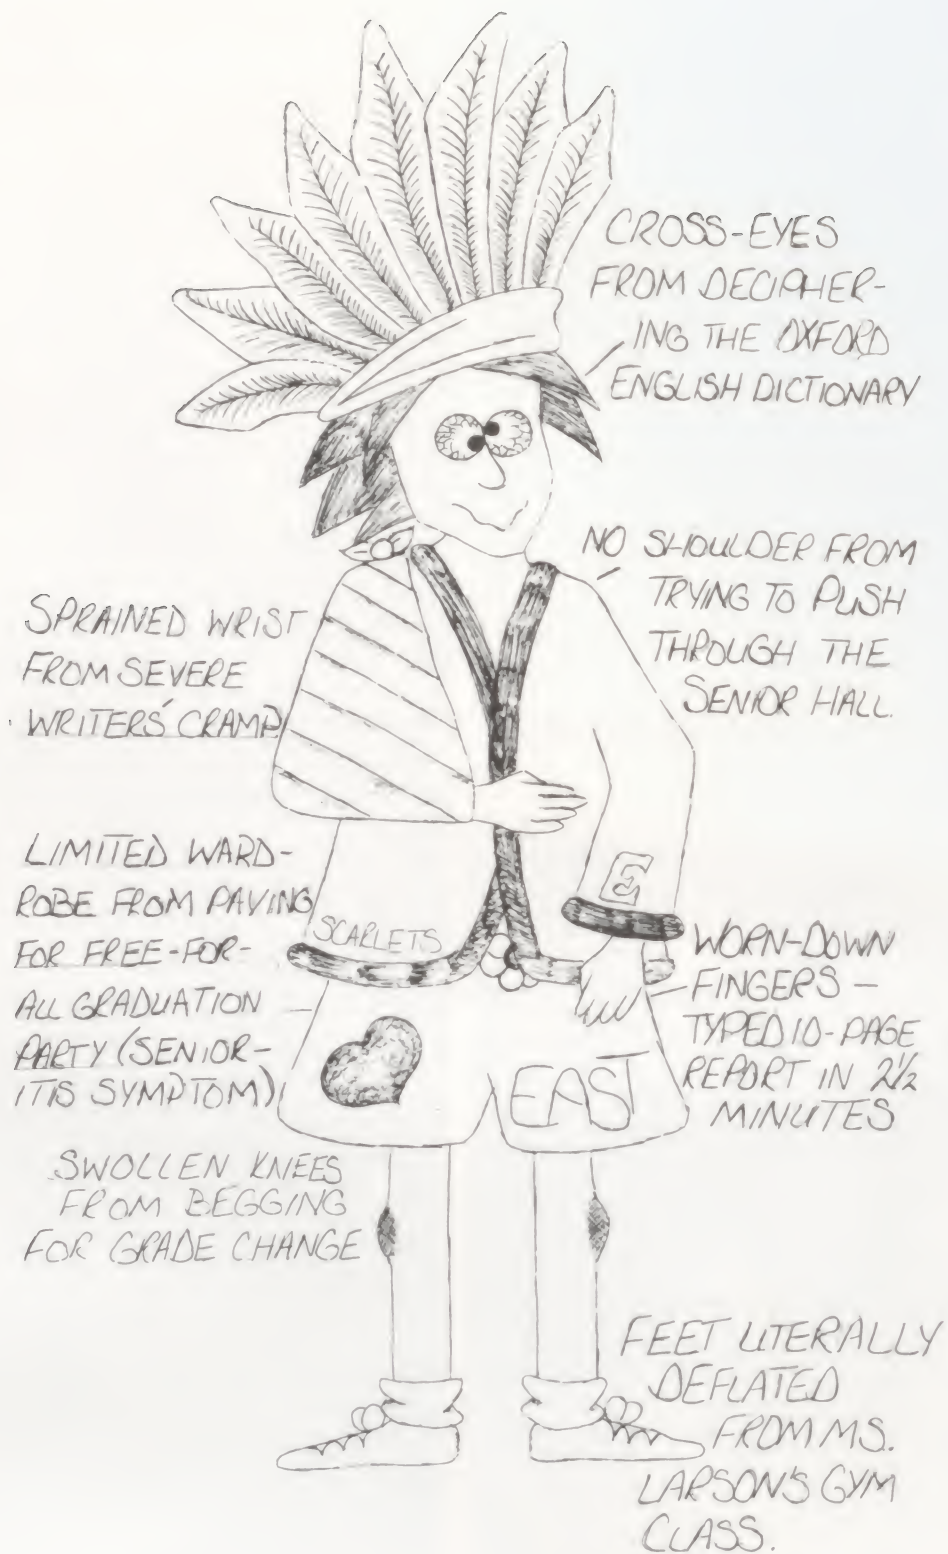

"I enjoy watching our students develop their logic and reasoning in our algebra and intro-algebra courses." — Mr. Bill Carlson, teacher

"The reason I have my students make cell molds is that 83 percent of learning comes from vision. The kids will learn better if they visualize things." — Mr. Paul Sloan

"Making three-dimensional cell molds was a unique way to learn about the structure of a cell." — Kerry Mann, sophomore

"What isn't chemistry??" — Mr. Larry Hutzell, teacher

"Even though this is Mr. Ray Patrila's first year of teaching chemistry, he knows what he is talking about and he teaches the class so we understand it." — Jason Nash, senior

English, study habits: familiar combination

"Mr. Jim Van Tuyl gave us worksheets to study from for the tests. Some of the questions came from the book and notes; the rest came from films. We also got to watch films about ancient Egyptians and do worksheets on them, so we had to pay attention." — Matt Hutchings, freshman

"I had the most fun interpreting religious poems in the beginning of the literature book, especially 'Sinners in the Hands of an Angry God'." — Jill La Mar, senior

"For my studying in American History, I usually read over the chapter three times and read over my notes. If it was a major test, sometimes I would stare at a hard problem for three or four minutes; then I'd skip it and come back to it later." — Kim Fox, senior

"English was great because there were more discussions than written work in Mr. Ed Kelly's class. He made you think and voice your opinions rather than just give straight answers from the book." — Jennifer Rouse, junior

"To study for tests, I went through my notes for the class I was studying over and over until I memorized them. Then I went through them again. Then the next day, right before the test, I would get nervous and forget everything I studied." — Shawn Young, senior

"I liked writing in our personal journals the best. You just had to write down your personal feelings and random thoughts." — Steve Garner, junior

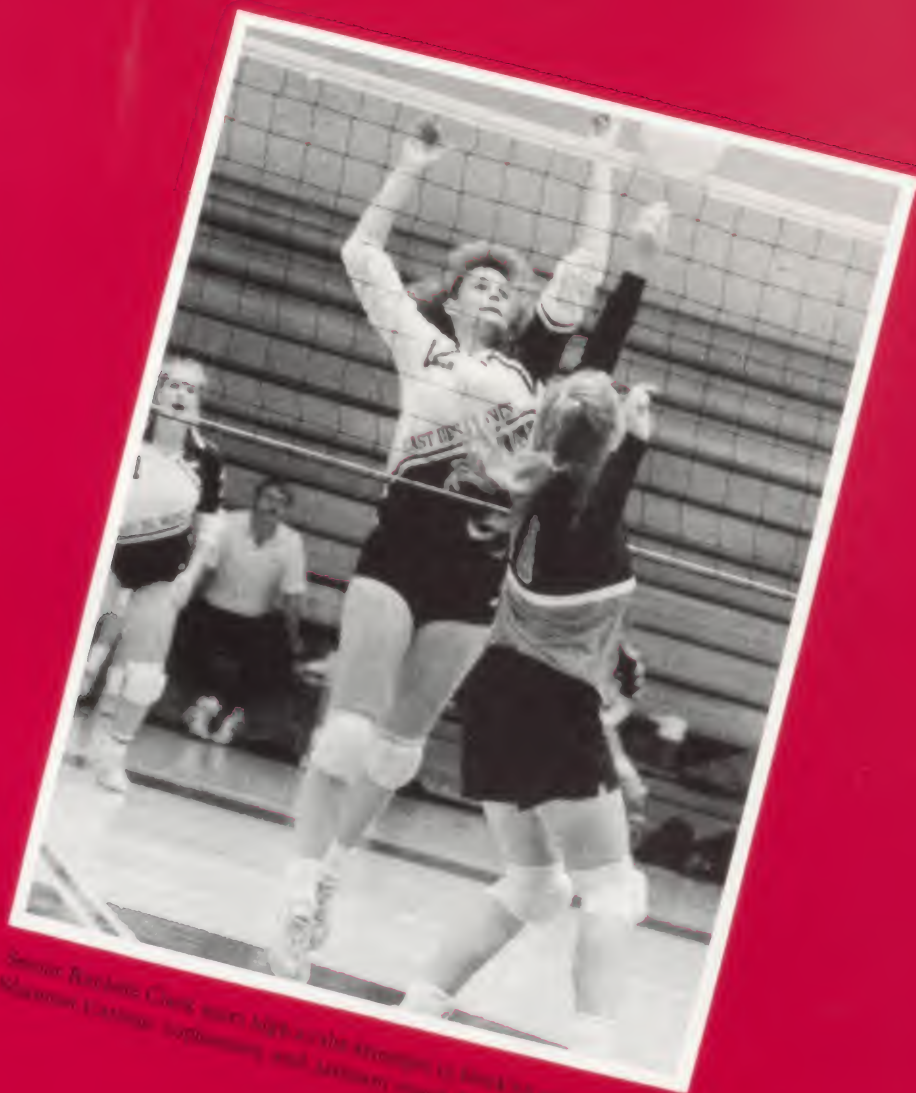

"I made sure I took good notes in English and got the information I needed written down." — Traci Fisher, junior

TUMBLING

Good times are the only words to describe the Scalpion Scarlets when it comes to sports. East High has always been an extremely spirited school, and this year we were no different. Through thick and thin, we stuck by our teams, because they were a part of us and our school. How could we not support them?

This spirit led us to a "roaring good time" in all. We stood by our football team as they worked very hard to let their opponents know when they had received a Scarlet Stick. We watched as our green volleyball team grew and matured. Boys cross country was our sport in the limelight this year when the team scored second in the State finals and placed 11 runners in the top 20.

Underneath all of our "tumblings for victory," one thing remained: our forever strong and unequalled spirit. It will never be broken.

Senior Barbara Cheng goes high as the opponent is back to scoring with Marlene Lattin's blocking and Jeremy Smith's back pass.

for Victory

Garth Wells, senior, concentrates as he crosses the line and a race nears its end. He will give his part of his preparation to his country soon.

SPORTS

Team glows with bright season

The 1990 varsity baseball team shined brightly with a successful season. Its 29 players, of the 32 who tried out, exhibited strength and determination by winning a total of 20 games. Their overall record was 20-15.

There were 20 letter winners. The team had three players earn the honor of first team All-Conference. These players were Rick Goodwin, Richie Young and Rowdy Farrell.

The team possessed a lot of depth at each position, which was one of the key factors contributing to a successful season, along with a lot of hard work and dedication.

East lost six games by one run, including three to the Conference champ, Ames. As a result, Coach Ric Powell commented, "I thought we could have won 25 games."

The team showed their strength and determination to win by coming from behind. After East trailed 11-3 against Dowling, they scored nine runs in the last three innings to win 12-11. Indianola, ranked second in the state at one time, became the victim of the Scarlets in the Saydel Tournament. East won by an impressive score of 11-3.

The sophomore baseball team "had a really fine season," according to Sophomore Coach Jim McNabb. The team was 21-9. Coach McNabb also felt that "the team worked very hard, with everyone contributing to its success."

Nineteen players made up the freshman baseball team, of a total of 45 who tried out. The team was victorious in 15 games while suffering only seven defeats. Coach Clark Roberts commented, "We had a really fine season and the team improved as the season progressed."

Memorable Moment

"We had a 20-game winning season and had the opportunity of enjoying victories over all the Des Moines Metro schools and many other teams." — Tom Shelton, senior

Softball soars through season

One might say that the varsity softball team had an "awesome" season. Head Coach Bob Savage said, "This was a very enjoyable softball season. We had an excellent group of softball players. If I keep getting girls like these girls, I don't know when I'll retire."

Autumn Brown, junior, said, "I feel that we had an awesome season, and we also made history by winning 32 games and losing 4. I feel that our team stuck together. I hope the same goes for next year."

The Scarlets won the Metro Conference three years in a row. They won 32 games and lost 4. Their best game was against Dowling; the Scarlets played 16 innings and won.

The 1990 season was very successful. The team won the Sectionals and they were only one game away from State.

As you can see, the Scarlets had a very successful season. The predictions for the 1991 team: They should be as good as, if not better than the 1990 team.

Other great victories included beating Urbandale, the best junior varsity team in the tournament.

Scarlets show great dedication

The Scarlet soccer team showed a lot of courage this past season. Although they had a disappointing season, the determination and enthusiasm set a shining example. Each member of the team deserves recognition; not a single member quit the team.

They played a long schedule that included near wins against North, Hoover and Valley. In the Valley game, East held the opponent in the first half, but Valley came back and won with a score of 5-2.

The Scarlets were led by two excellent captains: alumni Jeff Long and Paul Fensterman. Ricky Hardy, junior, said, "Paul and Jeff displayed great leadership, and they also urged everybody to do the best they could do."

Junior Chris Jones commented, "We should have a better team next year because of the experience all the younger players received, and the junior varsity team showed a lot of improvement throughout the season."

Boys' golf gains experience

The season started out well for the players on the boys' golf team. They had a rough ending, but still ended with a respectable record, including a 3-3 record for dual meets.

The 19 members were led by Mike Schmidt, the team captain, and the only senior on the team. One memorable victory was of that over Valley, a team that East defeated twice during the season. According to Mr. John Schnoor, the coach, this was an unusual and commendable feat.

Throughout the season, the underclassmen gained useful experience that will be applicable and helpful during the next season.

"We should have a better team next year because we lost only one senior this year," said Mr. Schnoor.

Scott Hart, freshman, shows great determination while attempting to sink a difficult, and stressful putt.

Boys take second in State!

The cross country team proved their abilities and teamwork on their way to a State runner-up finish in the class 3A State cross-country meet.

The team showed great togetherness throughout the season. The varsity and junior varsity ran as one team, not as some would expect. The team was coached by Head Coach Don Graves and helped by Volunteer Assistant Joe Robinson. The captains of the team were seniors Matt Maxwell and Curtis Weiss.

The team had a great season, finishing first or second in every meet but one. The team started the season by winning the Urbandale Classic. They also won the Hoover Invitational by taking the first three places and five of the top eight.

Next, the team took second place in the Ankeny Invitational, losing to the number-one rated team at the time by four points and beating the number-three team. Without two of their top seven runners, they finished second at the Cardinal Invitational. At the second Urbandale Invitational, they placed second, losing to the number-two-rated team at the time. For the fifth straight year, they won the Augustine Invitational by winning all grade levels.

At the Metro Conference meet, they placed second, four points behind the number-one-rated team in the state. They placed three runners in the top five and four in the top 11. This was the best finish by an East High team in many years. The team then competed in the District meet, along with 15 other teams. They won the meet by defeating the number-two-rated team and placing three runners in the top six and four in the top 11. By winning the Districts, they gained a berth in the State Meet, where they finished second. They were rated fourth going into the meet and were the only team to place three runners in the top 20.

Returning next year on the varsity team are junior Josh Hanson, sophomores Chad Beason and Rick Ramirez, and freshman Brian Bickel. Others returning are juniors Brian Colbert and Steve Garner, sophomore Josh Conn and freshman Matt Heldenbrand.

Melisa Kalar, freshman, looks ahead to the finish line after passing a girl down the final stretch.

The girls' cross country team showed great pride and determination over the year. Although small in number, they went out every day and gave it their all. The team, at the end of the season, consisted of only three girls, junior Bonnie Bever, sophomore Sara Barker and freshman Melisa Kalar. The team was coached by Ms. Carole Larson.

The team ran together, trying to improve every meet. Melisa commented, "Even though we were small, we ran together, improved our times and reached some of the goals we established at the beginning of the year." The team gained a lot of experience throughout the season, and hoped to do better in future years.

Although the records didn't show it, the team had a very successful season. Sara Barker commented, "The season was challenging with only three runners, but we were determined to do the best we could. Hopefully, next year more girls will go out."

Gain experience for next year

The lack of experience and the loss of many senior varsity players created an obstacle that was difficult to overcome.

The football players were anxious to start the season and were well prepared to take on their scheduled opponents. However, as the season progressed, frustration took over, even though the Scarlets made it through the season and made a very good effort.

The Scarlets were in a good position to win in five out of nine games. They never gave up their competitive spirit and always made a good effort to win.

Many valuable experiences were gained by all underclassmen. All the Scarlet players are anxious to play next year.

One player, junior Joe Thompson, commented, "Although we didn't have as good a season as the one before it, we made good progress. We had many good players."

The sophomore football team possessed a lot of talent this year. The team was faced with a fierce schedule, which included teams like Roosevelt and Dowling. The team had impressive victories against Hoover and Southeast Polk.

Albert Winfrey said, "I felt our team did well over all, but we needed to work harder in practices and in games in order to achieve the goals we set."

Head Coach Bob Carmichael commented on his team: "In observing this team for the past two seasons, it's evident that they work extremely hard, and that their potential for future Metro championships is very good."

Sixteen members from the sophomore team received varsity experience: Aaron Abbas, Jullian Allison, Derek Hartline, Sarob Hoeut, Matt Johnson, Brian Kuehler, Frank Lopez, Ryan Mullin, Shaun O'Brien, Jerry Owen, Chad Patterson, Joe Shelton, Albert Winfrey and Mike Winget. Lalo Garcia said, "I felt the team did all right as a whole, but we needed to put forth more effort in practice. I'm also looking forward to playing football next year as a sophomore."

"Our team was packed with a lot of talent this season, and I believe our record will improve in the years to come. In order to win in the future, our team has to work together," commented Sam Woods.

Curtis Black spoke about his team's efforts this season: "Even though we had a record of 0-8, I believe a lot of players on the team tried extremely hard. Girls swim into bright future

The 1990-1991 girls' swimming team's record wasn't the highlight of their season, but junior Andi Brown was an incredible spark for the team. Andi went to the state meet and placed twelfth in the 100-meter breaststroke. She also broke the school record in the 100-meter breaststroke. Andi commented, "We had a very young team this year. I feel our team expressed great togetherness and spirit."

Head Coach Ken Gaeth said, "This year was a building year for the girls I believe next year we will be more successful because we had no seniors on the team, and our junior high program produced a lot of excellent swimmers."

"Our team practiced very hard every day. I also felt that the freshmen showed great dedication, but we need more girls to go out for swimming," said junior Sarah Brown.

Teamwork strengthens skills

The varsity volleyball team was a squad that tried hard at their games this year. Junior Missy Hickman said, "We were a good team, although we didn't have a lot of luck with the games."

The team's highlight came in their last two matches when they beat Lincoln and North. Volleyball teams have easy games and difficult games. One of the Scarlets' difficult games came when they played Ankeny during the Sectionals. Their loss to Ankeny completed their season.

The team had nine letterwinners this year: seniors Rachele Clark and Janelle Dupree; juniors Bee Thongsoum, Missy Hickman, Jenna Duden and Kim Wagner; sophomores Shannon Carlson, Lisa Flynn and Kris Klukas. Jenna said, "I feel that we worked well together this season; we strengthened our skills and had a lot of fun."

JV volleyballers use teamwork

The junior varsity volleyball team had a good season, and teamwork was a major aspect of their playing.

"We did very well this season. I only wish we had made it to the top. I improved my volleyball skills with the help of all of my fellow teammates and coaches. We worked hard, had a lot of practices and tried our very best. We all were very proud of what we did. We used teamwork. We worked as a team, and we won as a team," said Leia Fensterman, junior.

Latasha Brown, sophomore, commented, "This was my first year, so I think it went very well. We should have been in the top four, but I think that by the time this year's junior varsity team reaches varsity squad, we should be among the top three. I also believe that teamwork was very important in improving each of our skills."

Varsity girls excel in B-Ball

Led by Head Coach Mark Tiby and Assistant Coach Jodi Doyle, the Lady Scarlets had a spectacular season that led them to District play for the second year in a row.

The team was headed by several strong players, one of whom was senior Rachele Clark, who was ranked number one in scoring and also in rebounding in the State. Rachele helped bring about several victories for the Lady Scarlets, one of which included a game against Dowling, where East and Dowling were locked in a tie game, in double overtime, with no time left on the clock. Rachele made two free throws to end the game and score a victory for the Scarlets.

East then went on to play against Valley. In a close game throughout, East managed to pull ahead and succeeded in bringing them one step closer to the State tournament.

Rachele wasn't the only player on the team, however, who worked hard to bring about victory, although she was the top scorer of the team. The entire team, as a whole, played a big part in the success of the team. Each girl on the team put forth her effort to make the team what it was, and aided in making the team so successful.

Head Coach Mark Tiby, physical education teacher, commented, "The 1990-91 team improved as much as any team, and they set a number of school records. The team had a blend of outstanding senior play and enthusiastic underclassmen play."

All in all, the Lady Scarlets had a successful season, and it will always be remembered.

Team members work together

Another year has gone by and with it another season of boys' varsity basketball. Once again the East High Scarlets took to the courts and their loyal supporters took to the stands.

The major highlight of the season was the Scarlets' defeat of the Hoover Huskies in the final minutes of the game. In this last game of the season, the Scarlets slipped by the Huskies with a score of 64 to 62. One of the high scorers of the game was 6'4" junior Shawn Carmichael, with 26 points during the game. In an interview he said, "We worked really hard and had a lot of close games. I am glad that we won the last game of the season, and I am looking forward to a great season next year."

Another high scorer of the game was 6'5" senior Todd Ficek, with 14 points throughout the game. He commented, "We worked very hard all season, and we actually played a lot better than our record showed."

"We had quite a few close games against the top teams and we really came out in practice." These were junior Josh Hanson's remarks about the Scarlets' 1990-1 season.

Coach Chuck Sutherland has been coaching at East for 17 years, including the 1990-1 year. Throughout many of those years here at East, Coach Sutherland has had several excellent teams, some of which even went to State. "I am glad that they won against the Hoover Huskies. They deserved it after all of the hard work that they put in at the practices and the games." These were Coach Sutherland's comments about the 1990-1 boys' varsity basketball team.

The boys had many close games this year in which they lost by only a few points in the last minutes of the game. Congratulations for beating the Huskies and good luck next year and in the future!

Sophs strive for excellence

“Outstanding” is one word to describe our girls’ sophomore basketball team. We had four of our sophomores playing varsity. They were Kris Klukas, Lisa Flynn, Shannon Carlson and Latasha Brown. The team had many talented young girls, including Gail Foster, who was the top scorer. Latasha “Rebound” Brown set a record of 25 rebounds in a game against East Waterloo. The first time they played Valley, they lost by 33 points. However, the second time they lost by only three points. The girls’ coach, Mr. Gayle Burgett, said, “I feel that the girls worked very hard and it shows in their improvement. I am extremely proud of their effort all year long.”

The sophomore boys' basketball team had a rough season, but the players' attitudes were still high.

"I think that, considering our tough schedule, we really did very well. We had a couple of heartbreakers, but we stayed in there and didn't stop fighting until the horn sounded. That says a lot about a team. Our strongest aspect had to be our ability to transfer positions. Almost everyone on our team is a guard, or can play a guard. There are only three people that are centers. A lot of good people decided to come out this year," said Chad Bailiff, sophomore.

Sophomore Coach Joe Grandanette had this to say about his team: "We weren't very successful at wins this year, but the boys tried very hard. We still have a long way to go."

Frosh girls try hard to win

The freshman girls' basketball team tried their hardest this season. All of the girls have great potential if they continue to go out for basketball for the rest of their high school years. Some of the best players included Amy Knight and Jodi Scott.

Several girls commented on what they thought about the basketball season.

Carrie Anderson said, "Basketball season was really fun. I feel as if I learned a lot, and Mr. Bob Savage was a really good coach."

Nikki Baty, who also plays for varsity girls' basketball, said, "Basketball is the sport I'm best at out of all of my activities. The game that sticks out to me the most was when I blocked a shot at the Valley game and we went into overtime. Mr. Mark Tiby is a great coach. I'm sure we'll have a better winning streak next year."

Jodi Scott said, "I thought we had a pretty good season. Everyone on the team was fun to play with. I'm looking forward to next year so we can all play again. I think we will have a better season next year because I think we will all improve."

Player Deth Philavanh said, "Basketball season this year for me was exciting, although we didn't win that many games. We still stuck with it, and completed the season successfully. I'm looking forward to playing next year. I hope to make next year's season better."

Finally, Carey Shelton said, "I felt basketball was really fun this year even though we didn't have the best record, we still did pretty well."

So, as you can see, the girls still had a positive attitude about this year's season.

Mr. Bob Savage coached freshman girls' basketball at East, and has been an inspiration to all the girls' team this year, as always. The girls all feel he made them work hard and do their best. He helped inspire a positive attitude in all nine of the team members. Mr. Savage commented, "Through all the number of disappointments about the number of kids out for basketball, we managed to do pretty well."

Deth Philavanh uses her great athletic ability in her effort to shoot the basketball. As she takes a leap, her opponent is behind her trying to get the ball from her. Her move gave the team a chance to win the game. Other teammates assisted her efforts.

The freshmen had a good season. While it wasn't a winning one, strictly speaking, it wasn't a losing one either. With a record of 8-8, it is hard to say if it was a good season or not. Most would agree that it was excellent for a group of boys who had probably never played basketball against another school before. The players certainly would say they had a good season for their freshman year. These boys certainly put forth a lot of effort to accomplish what they did, working with people they scarcely knew.

Boys shine with hard work

The 1990 season was a building year for the East High boys' swimming team. The team included five members: Brad Bushong, Nathan Ellis, Mike Moyle, Donald Cady and Eugene Baloun, who was voted "the most improved."

Head Coach Ken Gaeth commented, "Our record was bad, but the odds were against us because of the lack of swimmers. The five swimmers we did have worked hard in practice. Next year looks a lot brighter because of the strong eighth graders we have coming up to East."

"This definitely was a building year for us, and next year looks good because all team members are returning. I would like to encourage more people to go out for swimming," said junior Nathan Ellis.

Wrestlers achieve success

This year the wrestling team showed their toughness on their way to a very successful season. Injuries put a few setbacks in the way of the team, but they overcame these setbacks to have a very successful season.

Many of the wrestlers came on toward the end of the season. The team qualified four wrestlers for the State Tournament: Jeremy Mendenhall, junior at 103 pounds; Bobby Anderson, junior at 112 pounds; Jay Fagen, senior at 125 pounds; and Joe Thompson, junior at 160 pounds. These wrestlers earned State Tournament berths after finishing in the top two of their weight class at the District meet. Bobby and Joe both advanced to the quarterfinals of the tournament, while Jeremy and Jay suffered disappointing defeats in the first round. Bobby and Joe were both defeated in their semi-final matches, but both got to wrestle in a consolation match. Joe finished the tournament in third place and Bobby in fourth.

This year's team had 17 letterwinners, and will return 14 of them. Head Coach Gary Rourke was very pleased with the younger wrestlers and expects another successful season next year. Fred Livesay, junior, commented, "Even though we were young and inexperienced we worked hard and improved as a team."

The team was led by the 4x100 and 4x200 teams, which included Les Cason, senior, Sone Philavanh, alumnus, Joe Thompson, junior and Truman McCurn, junior. Mike Robinson, alumnus, also showed great leadership.

The team was coached by head coach Don Graves and Assistant Coaches Mark Hurley, Wes Boehm and Ned Rasmussen. The managers for the team were Curtis Weiss, senior, Jennifer Lamb, junior, and Howard Barber, senior. The captains for the team were Mike Robinson and Sone Philavanh.

The team was very young and showed a lot of dedication. Head Coach Don Graves commented, "I thought the young kids showed great dedication, and did very well, stepping into the varsity roles when needed." The squad had a good showing with 29 letterwinners.

The team was very young and many considered it a rebuilding year, but the team won a couple of meets in the process. Head Coach Tiby commented, "We had an outstanding Metro Meet, where we had our fastest times and improved in every event." He also made the point that they scored in every event and even higher than expected in some events.

The coaches were anticipating a great spring 1991 season with many letterwinners returning and a host of young talent coming up.

Girls head for greatness

Although the girls' tennis team was fairly young in 1990, they concentrated and had a productive season.

The team members worked hard to improve their tennis skills.

The girls' tennis team was led by alumnae Nancy Lee, Amber Proksa and Jennifer Dierking. Senior Karin Campbell commented about the season: "I feel that we worked well together as a team. We had a lot of first-year players this year, which will provide us with more experience in the future."

"We had a fun and productive season. I encourage all girls with an interest in tennis to join the team," said sophomore Kellie Swacker, first-year tennis player.

As the girls practiced long and hard, they developed more discipline and stronger abilities as a team. The most important thing to remember about tennis was to have fun.

School....

What would school be like without organizations? It would be a monstrously boring and unbearable activity that everyone despised. Fortunately, East High offers a wide variety of organizations to choose from. These activities put the "good times" into all of our lives.

There were several organizations that had outstanding accomplishments. Steppers received a third place trophy for novelty at State competition in Pleasantville, Ia. and Color Guard received a second place trophy there. The National Honors Society began a program of tutoring fourth and fifth graders at Lucas Elementary School. Teen Leadership Connection even brought in an unusual car that demonstrated the effects of driving under the influence of alcohol.

All of these activities and many more helped to break up the monotony of the school year and put spice back in students' lives. It would be a dull place at East without such activities.

Practice + pride makes perfect

Many people assumed that the 1990-1991 cheerleading started in September when the school year did. "Those people are extremely mistaken," argued junior Missy Crouse. The loyal varsity squad began the week after school was out. It seemed that a complete summer of grueling, hard, Monday-through-Friday, 7-in-the-morning practices was the only way to perfect their routines.

"Even though I could barely get out of bed, our practices paid off when we got to camp!" reasoned junior, Tammie Chamberlain. While at Iowa State University for the National Cheerleaders' Association camp during the week of July 29-August 1, the squads received two spirit sticks, a grand champion nomination and numerous ribbons.

"Camp was a great experience; we were taught cheers and new mounts that crowds love," said junior Kristen Carlstedt.

The varsity squad was made up of 18 girls and divided as the year progressed. During football season, the girls cheered as one large group. "It's very hard to cheer with 18 girls, to try to get all of the squad's motions coordinated. Sometimes I wished the squad was smaller, but I've heard how neat it looks," said junior Missy Charron.

After this, the girls divided evenly into three units — Scarlet, Black and Red. The Scarlet squad cheered for boys' basketball. The Black squad rooted on the wrestlers, while the Red squad cheered for girls' basketball.

There was a new cheerleading squad this year. Mr. Ned Rasmussen, the sponsor, decided a junior varsity squad was needed. The JV squad, whose captain was Melinda Lewis, cheered for JV football, JV basketball and JV wrestling.

Senior Traci Adams of the Red squad was the captain of varsity. The Black squad was lead by senior Milisa Case and the Scarlet squad by senior Shelley Johnson.

Squad shows great talent in cheerleading

Hard work, long practices and dedication paid off for this year's sophomore squad. Their achievements included going to a summer camp at Iowa State University and performing at the Iowa State Fair this summer.

You might not have noticed that the sophomore Cheerleaders had a new look; they got new sweaters this year.

Katie Goodrich, captain commented, "This was a great year for our squad. Our ability to get along so well throughout camp and our regular season helped us out a lot! We've not only worked hard for camp and state fair competition, but we had a lot of fun doing it. I think that our entire squad has really grown closer throughout the year."

The freshman cheerleading squad was very successful in supporting the freshman football and basketball teams.

Mr. Ned Rasmussen was the squads' adviser. The captain was Bobbiann Jordan.

Being a Cheerleader is a big jump from junior high.

Wendy Sparrgrove said, "It was a lot of fun and a lot of hard work. We had some good times and bad times, but we pulled through it and did our best."

"Cheerleading has been a great experience for me as a freshman. I've had a lot of fun while meeting new friends at the same time," Lori Lethcoe said.

Charity Reeves commented, "I found that cheerleading is not all it's cracked up to be; it's a hard job. We had a lot of ups and downs, but in the end, it was worth all the hard work."

Varsity captain Traci Adams said, "The freshman squad worked very hard to add some very cheerful spirit to their teams. Believe me, it's not that easy."

So, as one can see it is not at all easy being a Cheerleader. Cheerleaders worked very hard to bring spirit to the teams of 1990-1.

Freshman Cheerleaders Charity Reeves, Lori Lethcoe and Bobbiann Jordan show excellent spirit.

Guards dazzle with new theme

As the East High Winter Color Guard marched onto the Pleasantville gym, they had one thing to do and they did it! They shined! After performing their starbound routine to the "Starlite Express" theme, the 16 girls received second place. Every girl was ecstatic about her performance. "No matter what place or trophy we bring home, I know the EHS Color Guard is number one," exclaimed Tiffany Wyant.

This was a year of very tense and exciting change. The color Guard and band got a new director, Mr. Craig Swartz. Mr. Swartz came to East from North.

"There have been a lot of changes this year for us, but with the level of ability, we have done surprisingly well," said junior Carrie Hemingson, captain.

The Color Guard officers for 1990-1 were captains Tiffany Wyant and Carrie Hemingson, juniors. Junior Diane Shellabarger was secretary and senior Susan Foster was treasurer.

Beginning in June, the girls practiced every Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 7:30 a.m. to get ready for the new football season.

Going to a new camp at Wartburg College in Waverly, Ia., was a great experience for the members. They came home with spirit awards and performance ribbons.

The two performing individuals this year were Tiffany Wyant and Carrie Hemingson. Performing to "I've Got the Power," sung by the group Snap, Tiffany Wyant received third place at Marshalltown.

After football season, 26 girls tried out again for the 16 spots on the elite group, Winter Guard.

Dedication and desire for perfection showed really well the month before State. These girls literally practiced day and night at several gyms.

The Winter Guard's new choreographer was Bobbi Grother, alumna. "I enjoyed working with these girls. They have a lot of talent," exclaimed Bobbi. "They will go on to many more competitions and place well!" Bobbi said.

"It was quite a challenge, but what we accomplished this year was well worth it!" remarked Tiffany Wyant, captain. "Even though it was rough, we had a good year," she said.

Junior Carrie Hemingson ends her individual performance at a school assembly with a big finish to "I've Got My Health," sung by Bette Midler.

These were the officers for 1990-91. ROW 1: junior Diane Shellabarger (secretary), senior Susan Foster (treasurer). ROW 2: junior Carrie Hemingson (captain), junior Tiffany Wyant (captain).

Junior Tiffany Wyant definitely has "got the power." "The Power" was her individualist song. Preparing for the Individual Competition which was held Nov. 3 in Marshalltown, required very hard and dedicated work. Tiffany practiced long hours to perfect her routine, and it really paid off. For her first year as an individualist, she received third place. As she ended her dynamic routine, the audience was fascinated.

Sophomore Tricia Nelson stands at perfect attention while waiting for the next command. Tricia shows her patience and posture, which the EHS Color Guard is known for.

Juniors Carma Miller, Tiffany Wyant, Diane Shellabarger, senior Stephanie Dumas and junior Melissa Ramirez dazzle the audience while doing their routine to 'Starlite Express.' Even though it was hard work, it was well worth it. It was a real honor performing at State, and the Winter Guard did just as well if not better, at the other competitions they entered this year.

While performing, freshman Tiffany Wickersham shows her stuff at State. This is one of the many poses that enticed the audience.

Steppers: They're even hotter

Being a Stepper doesn't come naturally. It requires much dedication, talent, time and expense. Although these requirements might seem stiff, the rewards are worth it!

These girls didn't live up to the saying "lazy days of summer." They were at practice by 7:30 a.m. from the second week of June until the third week in July. During the week of July 10-13 they attended the Marching Auxiliaries camp in Waverly, Ia. While at camp, they received first place for their camp dance, which was put together by the captains.

Of course, East won the spirit baton for being the most spirited during the entire time at camp. Evaluations were held at night to evaluate dances that were learned earlier that day. The Steppers didn't fail to walk off the floor with blue ribbons in their hands. After trying out at camp, nine lucky girls were given the honor of performing during the halftime extravaganza at the Holiday Bowl in San Diego, Calif., Dec. 30, 1990. Concluding their summer performances was their routine which they marched to in the Iowa State Fair Parade.

Double practices started in October when State competition drew closer. Alumna Kim Douglass choreographed their two routines. The Steppers strutted their stuff in front of the judges and a large audience in Pleasantville, Ia. The competition was tough, but they pulled through by receiving "one" ratings in their dances, plus a third-place trophy for their novelty routine.

"Let's Go!" These words were heard loud and clear as the Steppers yelled them with as much energy as they could before they began their dance. The dance song ranged from ballet to MC Hammer to country.

Yearbook geared up for a very exciting year

The Quill Staff had fun while working hard on the yearbook. Mr. George Christian, adviser, constantly reminded the staff about deadlines and following through on the details.

Twenty-two students made up the staff. There were 9 seniors and 13 juniors. The editors were seniors Dan Packard, editor, and Melissa Brennan and Patricia Alba, assistant editors.

The yearbook staff has four different deadlines. Each student is assigned a spread to be completed by the day of the deadline. Everyone worked hard to complete the work assigned to him. Before the deadlines came, the staff members had to do many things in order for their spread to be complete. First, they had to tell the Photography class what kind of pictures they wanted so the photographers could take them. Then they interviewed anyone whom they wanted a quote from. After cropping their pictures, they decided what they wanted to write for their captions. They needed to complete other minor details in order to complete the spread.

Lisa Benedict, senior, commented, "There is a lot more to producing a yearbook than people think. Not only does it take dedication and hard work but it also takes cooperation among all of the students taking the class."

All of the yearbook staff tried to work up to Mr. Christian's expectations. They wanted this year's yearbook to be the best one he's ever supervised. Everyone will miss him because without him, our yearbook never would have been completed on time. This year was the last year that Mr. Christian supervised the journalism classes. He will retire May 31, 1991.

The yearbook staff will always remember Mr. Christian saying, "If you want a spring delivery yearbook, you have to go through with the details and meet the deadlines."

Mr. Christian has taught journalism at East for 39 years. He has gone through all the ups and downs of producing a great yearbook. All the students who took his class will miss him!

Scroll Staff shows dedication

Every three weeks, third period is different from the normal school hour. A small commotion occurs in the class as students grab for their copies of the East High Scroll, the tri-weekly school paper.

To make sure this paper is produced on time is no small task. It takes a lot of dedication, patience and meeting of deadlines. Much stress comes with each issue as students try to produce the best publication possible.

To begin the long process, the editor and his assistants make a list of stories. These are chosen from ideas submitted by the adviser and staff members. Each page is laid out, and it is decided where each story will be placed. Next, the stories are assigned to members of the staff.

When stories are back from the typesetter, the staff pastes them on the layout pages to ensure that everything fits properly. After this, the pages are ready to be printed. The result is the many copies of the Scroll that students, faculty and many people in the community read and enjoy.

The Scroll Staff was made up of 23 seniors, and their adviser was Mr. George Christian. All of these people worked hard and showed dedication. The editor for both semesters was Patrick White. When asked about his position, he responded, "I was very pleased to be editor of The Scroll. I felt honored to be elected for both semesters. Although it was difficult, the excitement made it worth the effort."

Assistant editors were also elected by the staff. Throughout the year they were Chad Von Ahnen, Cathy Troutman and Lisa Day. Chad said, "It was a pleasure being the assistant editor; even though it was a big responsibility, it was fun."

Over all, The 1990-1991 Scroll Staff made their adviser, Mr. George Christian, proud of their work. (He will retire May 31, 1991.)

Seniors Laura Spaulding, Karin Campbell and Michelle McNeley work on preparing the next issue of the Scroll. By looking over the copies of their stories, they can copyread and catch all the mistakes before publication.

Being an editor has its glory and excitement, but it has its fair share of problems, too. When something goes wrong or happens unexpectedly, it falls back on the editor. Here staff member Michelle Twiss takes out her aggressions on editor Patrick White.

Editor Patrick White peers over senior Chad Knight's shoulder to look over and discuss the details of this specific page for their next deadline.

Leadership skills shower students with activities

The 1990-91 Student Government showed great concern by giving the student body almost all the activities they could ask for and more. The activities included Fall Sports Jamboree, Homecoming Week and Homecoming Dance. Two drives were held, one for collecting canned foods and the other for donating clothes.

During the first semester, the officers were Dan Packard, president; Cathy Troutman, vice-president; Mike Ramsey, treasurer; and Kimberly Ford, secretary. One officer maintained his position for the second semester, president Dan Packard. Cathy Troutman switched to the spot of treasurer. The new incoming officers were Danelle McIntire, vice-president, and Shelly Johnson, secretary.

Debate skills last a lifetime

This year's debate team succeeded in both policy debate and individual events. Five teams had outstanding records at tournaments: the team of freshmen Carrie Anderson and Misty Hayes, who had a 5-0 record at the Iowa City West Tournament; the teams of freshmen Ryan Boyer-Brian Rebel and sophomores Jason Bent-Denny Davis both had records of 4-1 at the Iowa Forensics League Fall Conference; sophomore Pathana Baccam and sophomore Forrest Wing received a 3-1 record at the Bettendorf Tournament; Pathana also had a 3-2 record at the Ottumwa Tournament with partner Fred Horstman, junior.

The policy debates were not the only ones achieving successes. Senior Lisa Day won two third-place rankings, one of which was at the National Qualifying Tournament for her outstanding dramatic interpretation. Junior Wanda North placed fifth at the National Qualifying Tournament for her enthusiastic original oratory. Junior Dahn Peterson placed third in her oral interpretation.

Junior Fred Horstman and Pathana Baccam use teamwork to succeed. Both Fred and Pathana attended summer institutes to strengthen their debate skills. Their hard work was awarded with an outstanding year.

Foreign clubs are active

While most students don't speak foreign languages, some do. Of course, to be in a foreign language club, such as French or Spanish, students had to be enrolled in a French or Spanish class.

The French Club succeeded in many activities. For one activity, they went bowling, and for another, they had a formal Christmas dinner. They had a great year.

The Spanish Club is a "revived" club. It was a real success. The club started the year by selling Spanish turkey cookies.

The two clubs were very active and successful.

Senior April Smith, vice-president, commented, "French Club has been really interesting this year. It's fun being in charge of activities like selling suckers, bowling, and going to a formal Christmas dance at the Embassy Club. I'm glad I got the chance to be involved in four years of French and to learn about the culture and history of France."

Junior Jill LaMar commented, "I joined the Spanish Club because I wanted to meet new friends, and at the same time, I wanted to be closer to the South American culture."

East hit by foreign cultures

Sophomore Anastasia Smith, of Australia, looks at the snow strangely, for she had never seen snow. Anastasia holds her tongue out, to try to savor some snow, which she loved.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS. ROW 1: Evelien Hoornstra, Anastasia Smith. ROW 2: Ninela Plamenac, Victoria Fredrikson. Their smiles brightened our days and nights.

East was fortunate to sponsor four foreign-exchange students from around the world. They arrived from such countries as Holland, Australia, Sweden and Yugoslavia. These four students brightened the halls this year with their smiles of joy and excitement. Coming from these different countries were Evelien Hoornstra, Holland; Anastasia Smith, Australia; Victoria Fredrikson, Sweden; and Ninela Nina Plamenac, Yugoslavia.

When they were asked to comment about East, we received these answers:

Ninela: "East is a lot bigger. East is different from my school. Here we change class and get to pick the subject we want. Back at my school, we stay in one room and we do not get to choose our subjects."

Anastasia: "I have felt really welcome while I have been at East. Both the teachers and the students have accepted me as a student here and made my adjustment a lot easier. I have made so many new friends! I don't think I have ever met so many people in such a short span of time. I feel as if I've always been here."

Evelien: "It's different. Classes are different. In Holland, we take 15 subjects and here we only have 6 subjects. In Holland, football isn't popular and soccer is the main sport."

Victoria: "East is very different and BIG. It is fun going here. I liked the football games; they were great fun. Back home we do not have football."

We were really glad to have these outgoing young ladies attend our school.

These students have felt the difference in schools, and that is something that they should be proud of, because not everyone gets a chance. All of our lives have been changed by their teaching us about their countries and ways. Some of us wanted to go and visit their countries. Here at East we hoped to see in the future more foreign exchange students.

Choir shows promising talent

Some refreshing changes were made this year in the selecting of just the right people and in the choir room itself. A lot of changes and remodeling took place. The old choir room consisted primarily of a set of wobbly risers and a piano. After the needed improvements, the students enjoyed sturdier and safer risers.

A new addition was a wall of mirrors in front of the singers. The students were able to perfect their posture and forms to improve their sound. During tryouts, range, pitch memory and quality were taken into consideration. Each person sang a short solo and had an interview with Mr. Jim Weaver, the vocal music instructor.

This year's Concert Choir class was held during second hour and included 34 dedicated members. They had a busy year practicing for State contests, concerts and other activities. Concert Choir went to State and was involved in the Winter Parade of Choirs. They also had a fall concert Oct. 23 and a pop concert Jan 29.

Scarlet and Prep Choirs improve and show talent

Just like any sport or physical activity, warm-ups are required at the beginning of each choir class. Warm-ups included physical stretching and breathing exercises to improve power, and increase each choir's ability to hold notes for long periods of time. Following those exercises were vocal warm-ups which helped students' range and overall sound. The rest of the period was usually dedicated to learning music and perfecting it.

Tryouts were held between semesters and at the end of the school year. Tryouts narrowed Prep Choir down to 29 members and Scarlet Choir to 42 members.

After his second year at East, Mr. Jim Weaver said, "I enjoy working at East and seeing vocal music students succeed in music and other areas."

Regiment steps best foot forward

The East High Marching Scarlets, under the direction of the drum majors (junior Erica Cunningham and sophomore Josh Conn) and the new director, Mr. Craig Swartz, had a terrific marching season.

Despite a lot of new freshmen, the Marching Scarlets progressed rapidly and learned their drills fast.

"The marching season started a little late in the new year, but we started working together and the show began to shape up. I think that we've built a lot of potential for next year," said junior Ginger Cowger. Junior Mike Mapes commented, "This year's band brought out and showed an inner togetherness among us. Competition still drove us to work for excellence on the field in Marching Band."

The Marching Scarlets practiced every morning before school through first hour to second hour. They learned to communicate together as one unit. Dedication and pride caused the Marching Scarlets to strive to be the best that they could be.

Concert Band was also taken over by Mr. Craig Swartz, new instrumental music director. The students met during first hour, after marching season was over. Despite the smaller number of students in Concert Band, the group still played with all the triumph, prestige and dignity they had. Sophomore Lori Kephart said, "Concert Band was fun and I learned a lot this year. When I've graduated, I hope that Concert Band will be as fun as it was when I was in it."

Mr. Swartz, the two drum majors (junior Erica Cunningham and sophomore Josh Conn) and section leaders of the band helped stimulate the rest of the band to play as accurately and clearly as they could. Without a lot of leadership, Concert Band would not have been the great success that it was.

Mr. Swartz came to East High from North High. He replaced Mr. Kent Keating and was the third East High band director in three years. Along with the Marching Band and the Concert Band, Mr. Swartz was also the adviser of the Pep Band and the Jazz Band.

East High welcomed Mr. Swartz as a new instructor.

With a stern look on his face, sophomore John Vestal plays his tenor saxophone with a lot of dedication and determination. John, and a lot of other students from the Marching Band, stayed and joined the Concert Band.

Sophomore Sarah McDaniel plays her flute with a clear tone and sound. She helped a lot with the overall sound of the woodwind section. This was Sarah's first year with the East High Band.

Jazz Band develops successes

The Jazz Band had a very productive and fulfilling year. They were led by Mr. Craig Swartz. It was Mr. Swartz's first year at East; he was previously the band director at North High School.

The members of the Jazz Band worked diligently to improve their style and skill. They competed throughout the state in jazz competitions. They competed in the Pella Jazz Festival, Hoover Jazz Contest, Creston Jazz Contest and State Jazz Contest. The Jazz Band also held their fifth annual East High Las Vegas Show. It was held in March at East.

Jazz Band member Todd Maxfield, junior, said, "I think that, as a group, we worked well together. During the year we strengthened our skills."

Greg Kephart, junior, commented, "This year was a rebuilding year for Jazz Band, but despite all the new faces, we still had a great year. We learned new songs and performed in competitions. Next year we should be even better."

Junior Todd Maxfield practices playing his bass. Todd is the only bass player in band this year.

Instrumentalists show talent

Drake Honor Band. Freshman Lori Lethcoe, juniors Michael Mapes and Athar Sanders.

The East High Orchestra had a wonderful year. The group practiced hard and showed off their talent at performances at East as well as at the Central College Music Festival. The Orchestra was directed by Mr. James Brauning, a part-time instructor at East. It was Mr. Brauning's second year at East as the director for Orchestra. Kelli King, junior, commented, "We have worked long and hard all year to perform lots of well known pieces to the very best of our ability. I feel honored to have Mr. Brauning as our instructor."

Three outstanding students from the band groups were chosen this year to participate in the Drake Honor Band. It is a very prestigious honor to be selected to perform in the Honor Band, which includes students from all Metro schools. The three students from East were freshman Lori Lethcoe and juniors Michael Mapes and Athar Sanders.

Ticket fairies do not exist

Did you ever wonder where the tickets for the school dances came from? Did you imagine the "ticket fairy" produced them with a wave of her magic wand? Maybe you thought there were some desperate, slave-driven student who worked night and day without food or water to get them finished. Sorry to disappoint you! They were printed by Mr. Jeff Bock's advanced Graphic Arts classes.

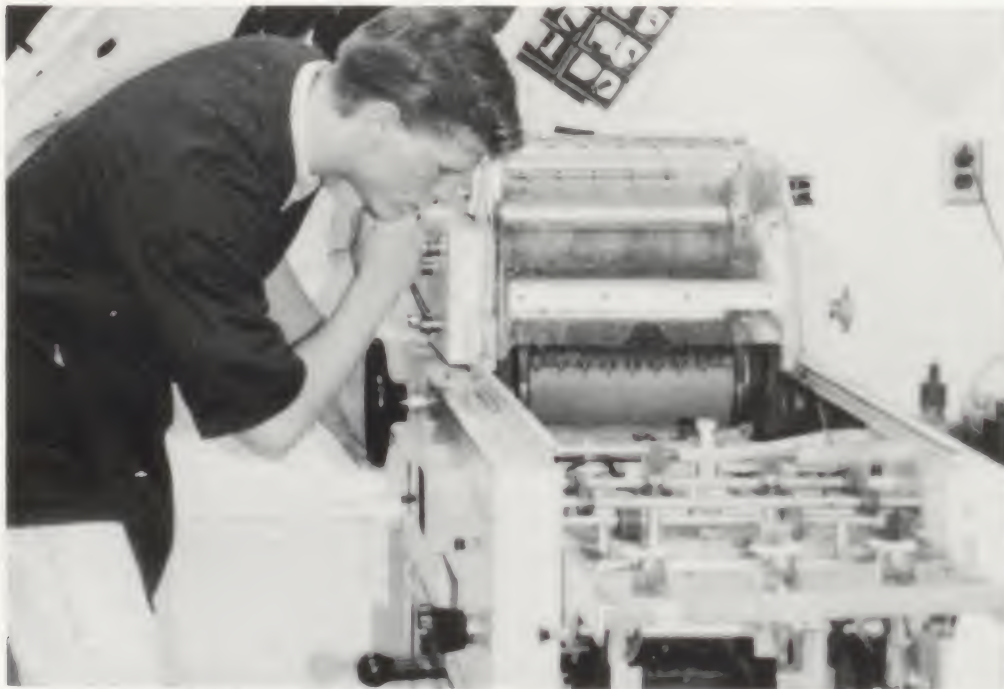

These students were also required to print the programs for school dances, along with the commencement programs and the programs and posters for drama productions. They also printed forms for the nurse, as well as suspension and truancy forms. However, these students were best known for printing The Scroll, the school's newspaper.

These students went through the processes of printing and folding enough newspapers for every student and teacher in the school. But of course, some students think that The Scroll is printed by the powerful "god of news!"

Just the click of the shutter and the bright light of the flash were all it took to record a scene on film forever. The Photojournalism staff was required to take pictures of assemblies, dances and sports games. They also had to shoot pictures requested by The Quill and The Scroll Newspaper staffs.

Third-hour Photojournalism was instructed by Mr. John Lethcoe. Students had to pass the necessary Photography I and II courses to become eligible for Photojournalism. However, Mr. Lethcoe chose only the best of those students for the class.

Throughout the 1990-91 year, Mr. Lethcoe chose eight students to be his chief photographers. For the first semester, he selected Traci Adams and Vaughn Van DeBoe for The Quill Yearbook and Cindy Grow and Diane Nichols for The Scroll Newspaper. For the second semester he chose Andy Minor and Jason Upchurch for The Quill and Trudi Van Buskirk and Jarod Fleck for The Scroll.

At the end of the year, Mr. Lethcoe threw a steak fry "appreciation party" for his Photojournalism students. What a way to end the year!

Seniors Diane Nichols and Jason Upchurch could be seen throughout the building taking pictures for The Quill and The Scroll.

Excellence among NHS

Students who strive to be the best that they can be and who succeed are those honored to be in the National Honor Society. The group is sponsored by Mr. John Raymond, a teacher of English. To be a member of the National Honor Society, the students must be in the top 15 percent of his class and must show great leadership abilities at East and in the community.

In the spring, new NHS members were given a certificate and pin at the induction ceremony. Throughout the year, members helped with the clothes drive, and they sold and delivered turkey-shaped cookies right before Thanksgiving. During Afro-American Awareness Month, the group helped post informational posters about that month in the halls.

These five National Honor Society members put together posters for the Afro-American Awareness Month. They were part of what helped make the month a success.

Outstanding seniors chosen as Kiwanians

Kiwanians are specially chosen seniors who have made exceptional academic achievements and showed leadership abilities in extra-curricular activities during their four years of high school. Being a Kiwanian was an honor given only to a selected few.

During the months that the Kiwanians were chosen for, they attended weekly luncheons at the Downtown Kiwanis Club. They had the opportunity to meet other students who were chosen Kiwanians at their respective schools. Also, they had the chance to dine with many of Des Moines' influential business and community leaders at weekly Kiwanis Luncheons.

Laura Spaulding felt that being chosen Kiwanian for February was not only an honor, but also an experience she'll remember for a long time.

Singing Scarlets perform often

The Choraliers were a choir of all-female students who met during period 3. They were taught by Mr. Jim Weaver in room 25. Choraliers did much the same thing as the other singing groups at East High. They competed in competitions throughout the year. They were also involved in performing concerts; six were performed during the year. Connie Thompson, senior, commented, "This year we worked on All-State music and Swing Choir music, and we performed at concerts. Through all of these things, we grew tremendously since the beginning of the year."

A Cappella choir like the Choraliers was a singing choir. This group was composed of boys and girls unlike the Choraliers, who were all female. Some of the people were involved in All-State music. They tried out for the All-State choir in the spring. They also performed in some Show Choir competitions. Latanya Ferrell said, "The A Cappelliers had a lot of potential. Most of the people in the class returned from last year. When it came to contests, we basically knew what we were doing."

Ambassadors' Club was a group of girls who helped guests visiting at East. It was their responsibility to guide visitors from other schools, parents, business representatives, school personnel and other special guests of East High.

Scarleteers were students who helped at the Freshman Orientation. They gave the freshmen a tour of the building and helped the freshmen adjust to East. Some Scarleteers were just volunteers who signed up. Others were Steppers, Cheerleaders, and Color Guard.

U.N. groups study government

The Model United Nations Club has participated in two projects this year. The first was their fall project at the State Capitol for Governor's Day. The group made up resolutions for selected topics and described how the United States should respond to these problems.

For the spring project, East's Model U.N. Club represented Indonesia and India at the Model United Nations held at the University of Northern Iowa. The members of the club dedicated extra time to research for their topics. Senior Erika Johnson commented, "I have really enjoyed being part of the Model U.N. Club. It's been really interesting learning about how the United Nations works, especially during this time of crisis when it affects us all."

Most high school students only dream about traveling to New York City and Washington, D.C., but a select group of juniors from around the Des Moines area really went there. These students participated in the United Nations Tour. These selected students traveled by bus, which provided an opportunity for the group to get to know one another. In Washington, D.C., the U.N. group visited the Capitol, the Smithsonian Institution and Mount Vernon. While in New York City, they saw the Statue of Liberty and Empire State Building, and they visited the United Nations.

The trip was a fast-paced whirl through the big cities, which left the students with a better understanding of our government and gave them the opportunity to see first hand what life is like in the influential cities of New York City and Washington, D.C.

Students publish creativity

Mr. John Raymond, teacher of English and a sponsor of the literary magazine, helps sophomore Matthew Krantz put together the best Portal Literary Magazine possible. The staff produces one magazine a year.

The Portal Literary Magazine was composed of literature, art and photographs, all done by students. The Portal Staff worked to produce a magazine which is usually distributed to students in early May.

The Literary Club was sponsored by Mr. John Raymond, Mrs. Jeanne Baitzer and Mrs. Julia Hagen; all are teachers of English. The staff includes 12 student members who meet twice a month.

Senior Alana Tomaszek commented, "This is my second year on the Portal staff. Working on the staff, you see a different side of the school. These students were talented in an area other than in math, science or sports. They were creative students who liked to write or were good artists."

Students that are willing to help themselves

During the summer of 1990, 16 students in Upward Bound spent six weeks of their summer at Central College in Pella, Ia.

These students from East High School and others from southeastern Iowa spent their time taking regular college classes to help them in their future college life.

Upward Bound is sponsored by a counselor, Mrs. Patty Hoffman, who said, "Upward Bound offers deserving students an opportunity to expand their experiences so that they will be ready for college life."

Ms. Anda Liepa is the sponsor of the Gifted/Talented group again this year. The G/T program is here to meet the unique needs of students who are gifted and/or talented in some area.

The students are identified in six areas: intellectual specific academic area, leadership, art, music, performing arts and vocational. The purpose is to provide services in the school.

The DEW Crew (Drug Education Works Crew) started its first year meeting every Thursday in the teacher's dining room. Each member agreed to sign a pledge stating that he/she would not drink or use any kind of drug while he/she was a member of the DEW Crew. After signing the pledge, the group attended a meeting in Cedar Falls and a workshop at the Embassy Suites, held by the Hazeldon Foundation, to "train" them. After their "training," the members went to elementary and junior high schools to speak about drug abuse. They performed skits and told about their personal experiences with drugs. The DEW Crew also helped organize East's first Post-Prom Party. Mr. Ric Powell, the group's sponsor, should be commended for his hard work and dedication in getting the group off to a good start.

Career Beginnings is a program designed to involve high school seniors in a career and education exploration experience. These students were given the opportunity to attend career fairs, visit college campuses and participate in workshops about financial aid and different careers. They were also offered tutoring sessions at DMACC (Des Moines Area Community College) and study sessions for the SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) and the ACT (American College Test.) While involved in the program, senior Leslie Cason commented, "Career Beginnings has taught me responsibility and how to be successful in life and in college. It has been one of the best things that ever happened to me. It changed my life." Career Beginnings was sponsored by DMACC and Mr. Don Graves.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes was sponsored by Mr. Martin Mohler. The group helped students understand and learn to deal with problems and concerns teenagers face. To become a member of this group, the students did not necessarily have to be athletes. Attending and participating in the group's activities was the only requirement.

Program strives to help students in their futures

The New Horizons Program is an alternative education program designed to encourage students to stay in school, to become more consistent in their attendance and to improve their school achievement.

The work experience, a major component of the New Horizon Program, helps students focus on learning for a purpose to see the connection between what they are being asked to learn in school and the application of that knowledge in the world of work.

From this the program was developed because there were so many young people who were unemployed and who didn't have the skills or experience to enter into an entry-level job. Also, the students benefited by learning general skills, being on time, following directions, getting along with co-workers and finding jobs.

Senior Mayyer Kommovangsa has been in the New Horizons Program for four years now. She is visiting her work adviser, Ms. Fannie Wilson, to work on a computer game entitled, "Who Am I," a program that helps students to understand themselves. Mayyer enjoys working on the computer because she can strengthen her skills and interest in her career. By doing this Mayyer will have an idea of what she will do in the future.

Student helpers assist library, office staffs

This year the library was full of students. The librarians needed help, so they had two students come to the library during each study hall period and lend a helping hand. During that time the helpers filed materials, checked in books and helped fellow students. The librarians greatly appreciated their help.

Each period the main office has two students who help out during their study hall periods. The students do jobs like running errands, picking up attendance cards and answering phone calls.

Organizations help improve EHS

The East High Booster Club celebrated its 25th anniversary of helping East this year. They held a membership drive, and, during the summer, they collected fees at the athletic events. The Booster Club also sponsored the AAU (Amateur Athletic Union) basketball tournament, Pancake Day and the sports banquets.

Every year, for a fund-raiser, the Booster Club sells the Red and Black Club signs that hang in the big gym. With the money raised, they give two $750 scholarships to two East High students.

One of the bigger contributions the Booster Club made this year was the new softball bleachers. With all these worthwhile activities, you can see why the East High Booster Club is considered one of the strongest high school booster clubs.

The Parent-Teacher-Student Association (PTSA) provided funding to accommodate the school's needs. To do this, they sold memberships and "East" paraphernalia. Their main fund-raiser was the concession stand, which they operated during the fall, winter and spring sports seasons.

Students learn to earn cash by attending class

Imagine being paid to do your homework. It's hard to believe, but true. In Mrs. Nancy Hansen's Sales class, doing your homework can actually pay off in cash.

Ad Sales is a semester class involving sales and marketing. The first few weeks of each semester were spent preparing juniors and seniors to go out into the community to sell ads for the yearbook. They covered math, sales math, math and selling, sales tax, commission and the ABC's (Always Be Closing) of selling. The students also gave a mock sales presentation on a product and tried to sell it to their classmates. After the first few weeks of a lot of learning, the students started putting their new knowledge to use. During their Sales Class period, they went to most of the businesses in the East High district to sell ads that appear in and support the yearbook.

Junior Lisa Cain commented after taking the class: "It's a great learning experience. You learn how to deal with people first hand." Not only that, but they earn commission at the same time. Each student received 5 percent commission for his first $300 of sales, and 7.5 percent commission after their first $300. In addition to that, the students who drove received gas money in their checks at the end of the semester. Junior Brad Peterson said, "I'm glad I decided to take Sales Class. It was a great learning experience and a lot of fun."

Congratulations to the 1990-91 school year's top seller for both semesters, senior Pat Leo. Pat commented, "I suggest this class to anyone, whether he's interested in a career in sales or not. You learn skills that could help you in any job."

Science Club, BPA expand in '91

The Science Club, sponsored by Mr. Ray Patrilla, had one main purpose: to promote the interest of science in students. Despite the few members in the club, they were still dedicated with their studies.

The Business Professionals of America (BPA) had another terrific year. It is a program involving students enrolled in Office Education and OE Co-op. The sponsor of the BPA is Mr. Gene Wanek.

On Nov. 20, the chapter entered the Regional Contest at the American Institute of Business. Fifteen student members from East received awards. Chapter members also participated in the State Leadership Conference Feb. 25-27 at Kirkwood Community College and the Five Seasons Hotel in Cedar Rapids.

The club also had additional activities, such as election of local officers, fund-raisers to pay for activities, invitation of speakers on careers and civic activities, and promotion of caring activities. The chapter also gave out two goodwill baskets at Thanksgiving.

Mr. Wanek said, "I feel that students in the Office Education Program have an excellent chance to apply their knowledge and skills in a training position. It is my pleasure to serve as a classroom instructor, coordinator of the program and adviser to the club."

BAC, EEE clubs excel with success

The Building Advisory committee (BAC) is an organization that meets once a month at school and exists for the purpose of discussing issues concerning East High and the district. Principal Jerry Stilwell, five students, five faculty members chosen by the faculty and five parents chosen by the PTSA make up the BAC.

The Expanded Experience at East Club (EEE) had another great year. Sponsored again by Mrs. Linda Saddoris and Mrs. Donna Christensen, the group meets as the needs arises, in room 601N.

The members of the club provide a great and loyal service to East High and its community.

Good times don't stop in gym

Students in the PEOPLE PE class were fortunate to be able to say they actually enjoyed gym class. It wasn't just an ordinary gym class, but a time for selected peer helpers to be able to get to know special education students. Not everyone had the opportunity to get to know others they didn't normally see, but PEOPLE PE brought them together.

Encouragement is good for all students, but especially for those who weren't always noticed. A great accomplishment came in having active peer helpers take the time to make the students realize that they could make the strike in bowling even if they struck out in softball.

Mr. Ric Powell was in charge of the class. He tried his best to make each year for his students their best. Coach Powell thought a lot of his peer helpers and gave them much credit for the class being such a success.

During the day peer helpers visited Ruby Van Meter School for students with special needs. Each helper was paired up with a teacher to assist him in the classroom. For most of the peer helpers, it was an enlightening experience to be able to help children in need and to brighten their day.

Throughout the bowling unit, many students showed great accomplishment in their games. Students that really stood out as improved bowlers received trophies. Those students were Chuck Faux, Bobby Jo Canty, Kim Johnson, David Merten and Stephanie Fogle.

Active students make good times happen for many

Every teenager will agree that being a teen isn't always easy. Teens are at the stage where they want to be independent, but at the same time, they are still dependent on their parents. A group that helps students to face their everyday choices is TLC (Teen Leadership Connection). Mrs. Dorothy Hall was the sponsor of this group of six students. Every other Tuesday or Friday morning at 7:20 the club met in Mrs. Hall's classroom to discuss certain issues that are important to them.

One way that the members showed concern for their classmates was by tying red ribbons on cars in the parking lots at East High for the "Tie-One-On" campaign against drinking and driving. The students felt that not having to worry about the pressures that some teens face came from knowing one another well enough, plus setting goals for themselves and sticking to those goals.

You say that you can't draw at all (not even a stick person)? Then the Art Club is for you. The club was for students with the desire for art, whether they already were pretty in tune with it and would like to expand their abilities, or would like to learn how to draw, period. Fortunately, anyone was qualified, and there weren't any fees required.

Mr. Steve Sams and Mr. Jerry Goodrich were the teachers in charge of the club. The group met every other Tuesday after school. Some of the projects they did included silkscreening and designing Christmas cards, and tie-dyeing clothing. Some of the places they visited outside of school around the Des Moines area were art shows at Drake University, Grandview College, the Art Center, the Polk County Heritage Gallery and The Register's Art Department downtown.

Students prepare for the future

Preparing students for a future was what Central Campus did for many Des Moines high school students. They attended their regular school for half of a day; then they went to Central Campus for the other half. At Central Campus they chose courses that prepared them for a career of their choice, one they could pursue after they graduate from high school. Central Campus offered a variety of classes that the regular city schools did not offer. One of the main reasons was because there weren't enough students interested in specialized courses at the other schools.

Central Campus was referred to as an Academic-vocational school where such courses as aviation, television, nursing, radio broadcasting, auto mechanics and a variety of foreign languages were taught. These courses were not offered at East. Languages taught at Central Campus included German, Russian, Japanese and Latin. With the pre-training that the students received from Central Campus, they had a better chance for success in future careers.

Juniors Jessica Hare, Brooke Thrasher and Debbie Hare realize that a small study group is the only way to conquer the difficulties of learning Latin as a second language.

Senior Brian Keller experiences first hand what it was like to be on the radio.

Junior Jennifer Murphy feeds her stinging anemone. Taking care of sea animals is only part of what Marine Biology classes study. Others studied water changes and spent late nights working with other fish and tanks as well as their own tanks.

Building it better than ever

MORNING HOME REMODELING. ROW 1: Steve McLeod. ROW 2: Mr. Ted Christensen (teacher), Rickie Good, Jeff Barr, Doug Baker, David Richards.

Home Remodeling was once again taught by Mr. Ted Christensen. This was a three-hour morning class worth 1½ credits and a two-hour afternoon class worth 1 credit per semester. The class did exactly what the course name described: the students remodeled a home.

That they remodeled it doesn't mean that they just repainted it and changed the overall appearance. That was all done after the completion of the real job. They totally tore down all the walls and outer covering so that the frame was all that was left. Then they started doing everything over. The course taught them many skills, ranging from electricity to plumbing to putting up walls and landscaping. When they had finished, the home they had completely torn apart was rebuilt and ready to be occupied, looking better than it ever did.

Senior David Richards is using the electrical skills he learned in the Home Remodeling class to rewire the electrical fixtures in the remodeled home.

Students strive for success

Many students got to skip fifth and sixth hour one day to attend the play "Go Ask Alice."

"I enjoyed the play very much. The actors and actresses were life-like," said Mandy Welch, senior.

Play Production classes played a great part in presenting the play. They had more to do with this play than everyone thinks. They built the set, made costumes, prepared the make-up, controlled the lights and sound, and were in charge of the props. They also sold all of the tickets.

Ms. Ruth Ann Gaines, teacher of the Play Production class, commented on the job they did for "Go Ask Alice": "They did a very good job on the set and they were able to work well independently."

Wendy Jo Duncan, junior, also commented on the class: "I really enjoyed the class. We all worked together. It became like we were all one family. When I say that, I really mean it. We didn't always agree on everything and sometimes there were arguments over the way things should be done, but they did get done."

The Theater Art students of 1990-91 were wonderful. Ms. Ruth Ann Gaines, sponsor, commented on their performance.

"My Theater Arts students were wonderful. The play 'Go Ask Alice' was one of the easiest plays I have ever done because of the actors and actresses. They worked together very well."

The Theater Arts students are the actual actors that perform on stage. They work very hard for good results on stage.

"We have to put ourselves into our characters' frame of mind. Before a play is done, the class does various other acting assignments, such as one-person monologues or short two-or-three person skits. I really recommend this class, but you have to have a real drive to act. It is very hard work, but it is a lot of fun. The class teaches more than most people think. You learn your acting style and your abilities. It's great," said John Parcel, junior.

Cadry Nelson, sophomore, stands in front of the intent audience as she acts out a scene from the play, "Go Ask Alice."

Cher Berglund, senior, poses dramatically to emphasize her role in the play, "Go Ask Alice."

Festivals, fund-raisers, fun!

The Thespians were a special group from East that attended workshops and thespians' festivals, where they had the opportunity to improve their acting, improvisation and miming skills. They also had the opportunity to take part in one-act plays. Each club member participated in at least three plays outside of school at places like the Ingersoll Dinner Theater and the Des Moines Playhouse.

* * *

Ms. Ruth Ann Gaines taught third-hour Scarlet Vibrations students how to act, rehearse and build sets. They also took part in all-school assemblies and performed for elementary schools and junior high schools.

Drama Club was the main sponsor of the Thespians and Scarlet Vibrations. One of the fund-raisers they held was the Fall Theater Collage, which took place in November of 1990. In addition, these students attended various plays in the Des Moines area.

The Light and Sound Crew was a group of six responsible students under the sponsorship of Mr. Pat Wilson. They weren't required to take a class to be in the Light and Sound Crew; it was an after school activity. "Learn as you go" was how Mr. Pat Wilson described their projects. These students participated in assemblies, sports games and plays by operating the ceiling lights and spotlights, along with the portable sound board. Almost all of their projects took place after school; however, others that took place during the day were school-related activities, like the Homecoming assembly.

The Light and Sound Crew controlled the gym lights for basketball games, volleyball games and wrestling meets. In addition, the Light and Sound Crew ran the portable sound board for plays and special performances by Color Guard and Steppers. These students were a part of East pride; hopefully they will go on to bigger and better achievements.

Seniors Jason Upchurch and Chad Wilson had many responsibilities as members of the Light and Sound Crew in 1990. These two were required to operate the spotlights and the portable sound board for special assemblies held in the auditorium.

AUTO TRADE INC. SALES & SERVICE

MICHAEL E. HAVILAND — OWNER

There have been more jokes about used cars and used car salesman than almost any occupation. But at AUTO TRADE SALES & SERVICE, used automobiles are no joking matter — it's a serious business. This fine firm offers the people of this area the best in good, used transportation that is clean, top-quality and checked to make certain all vehicles sold are in the very best possible condition.

It has often been said that "Business goes where it's invited and stays where it's well treated." That accounts in a large measure for the success and popularity of AUTO TRADE SERVICE in Des Moines, located at 4004 E., 14th, phone 265-7010.

This reliable used car specialist features the kind of quality autos that keeps smart consumers coming back and telling all of their friends. It's this person-to-person recommendation that has earned AUTO TRADE SALES & SERVICE their position as one of this area's community leaders.

We, the editing staff of this 1990 Business Review, highly recommend this reputable used car expert to all our readers for the BEST deal in town!

A Continuing Partnership

Pride

It's a feeling of accomplishment. Accomplishment in learning, in making friends and in knowing the years spent at East High have been the very best.

Pride

It demands the hard work and support of everyone. This total commitment has carried East to the pinnacle. And it is the same commitment that will keep East High No.1.

Pride

Iowa Power also shares this

Pride

in the many East High programs and their participants, in the student body,

Pride

Pride

in the community, and

Pride

in continuing alliance with East.

The students of East are the leaders of tomorrow. Leaders who will someday serve in government, business, and the community. As the journey into the future becomes reality, Iowa Power will also be there.

It seems like only yesterday
When we were teaching you to say
Just little words, like Mom and Dad
Remember all the fun we had?

Our lives have been packed full of joys
From Barbie Dolls to High School Boys
The years like seconds have flown past
How could you have grown up so fast?

And now on Graduation Day
We want to take this time to say
We're wishing you life's very best,
Much love success and happiness

All our Love,
Mom and Dad

It takes both rain and sunshine to make a rainbow.

The trouble worth trouble is that it starts out as fun.

Manners are the manifestations of class.

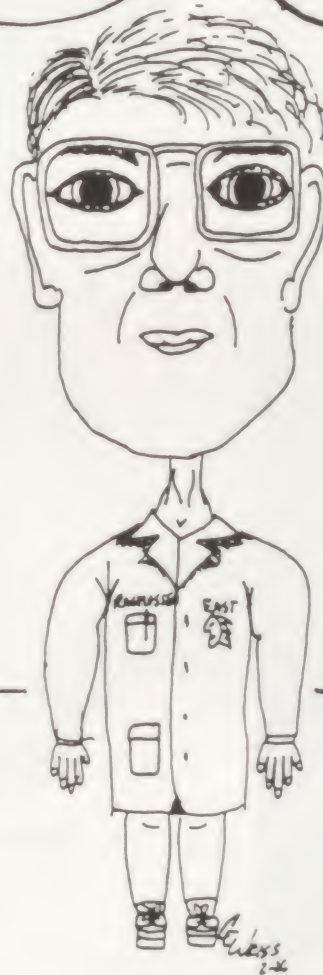

No one can make you inferior without your consent.

A strength carried to excess becomes a weakness.

Everything comes to him who waits if he works while he waits.

If you lie down with dogs, you get up with fleas.

People forget how fast you did a job, but they remember how well you did it.

FEW THINGS ARE CREATED & PERFECTED AT THE SAME TIME.
GOOD LUCK FROM MR. JUNCK & MR. RASMUSSEN

Petit à petit l'oiseau fait son nid

Tu peux allumer à ta chandelle la chandelle d'un autre

La figure fait la beauté d'une statue, l'action fait celle de l'homme

Les jours se suivent et ne se ressemblent pas

Au revoir, Senior cherubs!

Qui ne risque rien n'a rien

Il est plus facile de commencer que de finir

Qui n'a pas vu les seniors de 1991 n'a rien vu

Many men and women served in Operation Desert Shield in Saudi Arabia since August, 1990. America as well as other Allied countries, participated in Operation Desert Shield to free Kuwait from Iraq. On Wednesday Jan. 16, 1991, after Saddam Hussein refused the U.N. Resolution deadline, the United States and the Allies declared war on Iraq. Operation Desert Shield became known as Operation Desert Storm. Many men and women fought for the freedom that we, as Americans, sometimes take for granted. After being at war for only five weeks, on Wednesday, Feb. 27, 1991, President Bush declared a cease-fire. Kuwait was not a liberated country. We owe a special thanks to all those who fought for freedom in Operation Desert Storm. As President Bush said at the beginning of Operation Desert Storm, "We will not fail." And we didn't.

Christian will retire after 39 years of teaching at East. Good luck to you, Mr. Christian, in your retirement.

Mr. George Christian concentrates on proof reading the assignments of the class. At times, however, it was not always this peaceful.

Mr. George Christian proudly reads one of his students' finished products with a satisfied smile on his face. This was one of the rewards of teaching.

This yearbook was one of the last and final samples of the work of Mr. George Christian, journalism adviser. After 39 years in the business, he retired.

Mr. Christian started his teaching career in 1947, and after four years of teaching elsewhere and one year of graduate work, he began teaching at East in 1952.

"It was rough because I had never done the yearbook before," he commented. "They gave me a camera and three textbooks and told me to teach English and produce the newspaper and yearbook."

And it didn't get any easier. Increasingly complicated methods of production and a yearbook that grew to 300 pages have kept up the workload. Mr. Christian supervised 52 yearbooks, 26 from 1952 to 1965 when there were two yearbooks each year, and 26 from 1965 to 1991. The Quill became a hardbound yearbook in 1966.

In finishing his career, Mr. Christian felt that he has had many excellent Scroll and Quill staffs throughout the years. He is putting that all behind him now and plans to enjoy his retirement.

We'll miss you!

The 1990-1 Quill Staff

Freshmen Lori Lethcoe and Teryl Syferd are caught off guard as they set up for the Spree dance.

The 1990-1 school year has come and gone, but the memories will last forever.

We will "Keep Rolling On" through the remainder of high school and college years. We will continue with our lives as we normally do, and the 1990-91 school year will just be a long-forgotten memory as time progresses.

And is it only just useless memories that we will retain from our four years spent at this fine high school? Does it really mean that little to us? Are we really that "anxious to get out of here," as I have heard so many of my friends say?

Along with experiencing knowledge, pride and determination, we have experienced one of the most dramatic times of our lives here. I myself think back about some of my funniest memories from the past four years and chuckle. Sometimes I think back to mistakes I have made and shudder. Disappointments cause me to shake my head, while accomplishments make me stand a little taller. All of these experiences were as much a part of learning as were the books and quizzes. Both created memories that we will use to conduct our daily lives.

And so, as you continue to draw closer to that day when you will walk across the stage and receive your diploma, don't forget all of the memories. If you are about to graduate now, look at each one as a priceless treasure. These memories and this book will never let you down.

Dan Packard,
Yearbook Editor
